The RH Negative Factor
No monkeying around……you might be an alien.
Roberta Hill
The RH Negative Factor

I was curious about my rare blood type, and so what started out as a simple search on Google, turned into the most bizarre research of my life. First and foremost, I found out that we are descendents of a reptilian race of aliens, and that we love to drink blood and shape shift, while we are actively seeking nothing less than world domimation.

As I sat there reading this wealth of information, I sipped on my blood tonic while I pondered on what I was going to shift into today. “Hmmm. Will I be a model with blond hair and blue eyes or perhaps a brunette with hazel eyes?” “Decisions…. decisions”, I thought, “It is just so complex to be a reptilian these days”.

All kidding aside, I was really horrified by much of what I read, and believe me, there is a lot of really disturbing information out there on the internet. However, I also found quite a bit of credible and useful information about this rare blood type, and there is enough facts known about the RH negative factor that we can definitely come to some conclusions of our own.

In 1937, Karl Landsteiner and Alexander S. Wiener discovered the RH factor. It was discovered that 85% of the human population had the Rh D antigen on their red blood cells which was in common with the Rhesus monkeys and 15% of the population mysteriously did not have this antigen. It has been decided by geneticist that the RH negative factor is from some kind of a freak mutation that popped up in Europe and has not been selected out of our genetics yet.

The most interesting thing about the RH negative factor has to do with the reproduction between RH- women and RH+ males. The discovery made by Dr. Phillip Levine showed that erythroblastosis fetalis was caused by a difference in the RH factor between the mother and the child. The mother develops antibodies which then cross over through the placenta and attack the red blood cells of the fetus. The antibodies are produced when the mother is exposed to an antigen which is foreign to her body, and then her body produces IgG which will target the antigen in the fetus. The RH- women in the past had many difficulties with miscarriages and giving birth to babies with Hemolytic disease.

Rh type mother-fetus incompatibility occurs only when an Rh+ man fathers a child with an Rh- mother.”

“The first time an Rh- woman becomes pregnant, there usually are not incompatibility difficulties for her Rh+ fetus. However, the second and subsequent births are likely to have life-threatening problems. The risk increases with each birth. In order to understand why first born are normally safe and later children are not, it is necessary to understand some of the placenta’s functions. Nutrients and the mother’s antibodies regularly transfer across the placental boundary into the fetus, but her red blood cells usually do not (except in the case of an accidental rupture). Normally, anti-Rh+ antibodies do not exist in the first-time mother unless she has previously come in contact with Rh+ blood. Therefore, her antibodies are not likely to agglutinate the red blood cells of her Rh+ fetus.”

http://anthro.palomar.edu/blood/Rh_system.htm

The reason why I have studied extensively between the differences of RH+ and RH- is due to the fact that I am blood type B RH negative. Like most women with this blood type, I found out that I had negative blood when I was pregnant. My son had RH+ blood and so I was given RhoGAM, which is suppose to make it possible for a woman to be able to give birth to any additional RH+ babies after an RH+ birth has taken place. Unfortunately though, I had difficulties all the way through my pregnancy, I bled in my first trimester, which could have caused a mixing of our blood and my child was born premature. I must admit, I find it difficult to believe that a mother’s blood could reject a baby based upon its blood type; however this is a well known fact. In the past, women like me had a high percentage of miscarriages, until the RhoGAM shot was developed.

Apparently, people who are RH+ have a gene called Rh13, and people who are RH- do not have this gene at all. Geneticists have described the RH negative factor as being some kind of a mutation that occurred through a process of gene deletion, which is known as the “crossing over effect”. It was the discovery of the Rh13 gene that led to the cloning of RH+ blood; however RH negative blood has not been cloned yet. Geneticists believe that the RH+ blood type is the oldest blood type with type O RH+ being the oldest. If RH- is a more recent mutation, then how did this occur? I will be discussing the different theories in later chapters.

The rare RH- factor is considered a recessive trait and the RH+ trait is dominant, therefore children are more likely to be RH positive. There are a number of combinations that can result in someone being born as a RH-blood type. Look at the chart below for more information.

You can see from the chart above, that if both parents have the allele of -/-, then the child will undoubtedly be RH negative. However if the parents both have an allele of +/- (RH- recessive) or one parent is RH- and the other is RH- recessive (+/-), then the child could be RH negative.

We can see from the possible allele combinations, that there is also a certain population of RH+ people that are carriers of the RH- trait even though their blood type does not show that they are RH- recessive. This means that even though there is about 15% of the world’s population that is RH-, that there is also a percentage of the 85% of RH+ blood types that are carrying the RH- trait.

As you can see it is possible to get an RH- blood type from two RH+ parents. My Father is O+ and my Mother is B+ and I am B-, which made me curious as to how I could be RH-, so I searched for the answers on the internet. The chart above shows the different combinations, but I decided to plot the combinations on a Mendel’s cross and work it out for myself. Gregor Mendal was the first scientist to discover the rules for heredity and he devised this cross method for working out the possibilities of genetic inheritance. Check out the combinations below.
On the left side of the tic tac toe chart I plotted my Mother's RH allele and on the top I put my Father's allele. How did I know their allele? Well, from the chart of RH combinations there is really only one allele group that would have worked for me to be RH-, because they were both RH+, I knew that the other combinations could not be the case. With this chart you can plot all of the different scenarios that are possible. As you can see I had a 25% chance of getting this rare blood type. I would have had a 75% chance of becoming RH+, but a 50% percent chance of becoming an RH- carrier like my parents. I think my sister is RH+, because she has never talked about any difficulties in her pregnancies, so she is either +/+ or +/-, which means she could be a carrier of the RH- blood type.

As you can see the vast majority of RH- people come from the Basque people of France and Spain, and then Europe has the second highest percentage. We can surmise that the RH- blood type originates out of Europe and has spread over to other countries that contain European ancestry heritage. The RH- recessive alleles (+/-) make up approximately 60% of the Basque people and 40% of the Europeans, so that means that a higher percentage of RH+ people in Europe are carrying the genetics of the RH- factor in their DNA.

"No one has tried to explain where the Rh negative people came from. Most, familiar with blood factors, admit that these people must at least be a mutation if not descendants of a different ancestor. If we are a mutation, what caused the mutation? Why does it continue with the exact characteristics? Why does it so violently reject the Rh factor, if it was in their own ancestry? Who was this ancestor? Difficulties in determining ethnology are largely overcome by the use of blood group data, for they are a single gene characteristic and not affected by the environment.

The Basque people of Spain and France have the highest percentage of Rh negative blood. About 30% have (rr) Rh negative and about 60% carry one (r) negative gene. The average among most people is only 15%-Rh negative, while some groups have very little. The Oriental Jews of Israel, also have a high percent Rh negative, although most other Oriental people have only about 1% Rh negative. The Samaritans and the Black Cochin Jew also have a high percentage of Rh negative blood, although again the Rh negative blood is rare among most black people.

http://www.greatdreams.com/reptlan/rhneg.htm

The Basque people are also known for having the oldest language in Europe, and the origins of the Basque language are unknown. The languages in neighboring countries in Europe show no resemblance to the Basque language, so this has become a real mystery to the linguist.

For some unknown reason, I have always been drawn to learn about the Basque, ever since I read a book that talked about the unique blood of the Basque people. At the time I read this book, I was in middle school, but was unable to understand the scope of what I had read. I knew that my grandmother had family that had come over from France, and so I wondered if there might be some kind of connection to the Basque. Unfortunately, I totally had misunderstood what I had read, being a child at the time, and thought that they had some weird alien blood type that was unknown to the rest of the world. So, as an adult, I tried to research about the Basque and I found out that their blood type was normal, and I was so disappointed. I didn’t research enough to realize what that book I had read in my youth was really trying to say, nor did I make the connection that it was talking about the genetic mutation of the RH negative factor. Recently, I started researching about the RH negative factor and realized that this distinct blood type was the most prominent with the Basque and then it had spread all over Europe and into America. Bingo, I had finally understood what that book was talking about, and then I realized why I had felt so strongly about maybe having a Basque connection. I guess you could say it was kind of an intuitive thing.

The fact that my family on my mom’s side comes from France showed a connection, but I was also stunned to find another RH- connection, as well. My ancestors came from all over Western Europe, but on both sides of my family, there is a strong Irish ancestry. Well, as the luck of the Irish is with our family, so is the distinct blood type of RH negative.

The Celtic people of Ireland and Great Britain also have high incidences of the RH- factor and it has recently been proven that there is a genetic link between the Basque and the Celts. This research proves that the Celtic people came from the Basque regions of France and Spain and a group must have migrated over to the islands of Great Britain. With this research I can surmise that my family got this distinct blood type from our French and Irish ancestry roots.

Genes link Celts to Basques

The Welsh and Irish Celts have been found to be the genetic blood-brothers of Basques, scientists have revealed.

The gene patterns of the three races passed down through the male line are all "strikingly similar", researchers concluded.

'Statistically indistinguishable'

He and his colleagues looked at Y-chromosomes, passed from father to son, of Celtic and Norwegian populations. They found them to be quite different.

"But we also noticed that there's something quite striking about the Celtic populations, and that is that there's not a lot of genetic variation on the Y-chromosome," he said.

To try to work out where the Celtic population originally came from, the team from UCL, the University of Oxford and the University of California at Davis also looked at Basques.
"On the Y-chromosome the Celtic populations turn out to be statistically indistinguishable from the Basques," Professor Goldstein said.

There is only one blood type that can give to all other blood types, and yet can only receive their own blood type in return. The universal donor is type 0 negative and so blood banks are constantly asking for people with this rare blood type to give some blood. This blood type is considered to be the purest blood in the world.

Notice that 0- can only receive O- blood, and this is unfortunate for them because this is a rare type of blood. I am a B- type and so I can only receive B- or O-, although I can give to AB+, AB-, B+ and B- blood types. The AB+ person is very lucky indeed, because they are known as the universal recipient and they can receive blood from anybody.

The peculiar thing is that anyone with RH negative blood can give to an RH positive, but an RH positive can never give blood to an RH negative. Notice that all of the RH- types can only receive RH- blood. Our bodies will actually fight against the RH+ blood, like it is a virus or an allergic reaction, whereas if an RH+ person receives RH- blood, they will be fine. Basically, the giving of blood between RH- and RH+ people is one sided. This is a real mystery to me. How can you give RH- to an RH+ person without the RH- blood type?
fighting against the RH+ blood type of the person who has received the negative blood?

As you can see in the chart below, the rarest blood type is AB- and then it is followed by my type, B negative. All of the RH negative blood types are considered rare; however O- is the least rare of the group. Even though AB+ is a rare type, this is offset by the fact that they can receive any blood types, so this ultimately doesn’t have the negative impact that having an RH- type would have on an individual. There are more people with O+ blood in the world, then any other blood type.

Why are people calling RH negatives “blue bloods”? Well, again a peculiar thing happens between an RH- mother and a second RH+ baby. As you may remember an RH- mother builds up antibodies against the RH+ baby, and this means that the babies blood will start to agglutinate. Before the rhoGAM shot, babies were born blue and they needed to have blood transfusions to survive.

Prior to 1968, thousands of babies in the United States died from this medical condition each and every year. Back then, no one knew what caused these heartbreaking deaths. They simply called them “blue babies,” the blue, of course, referring to the color of the skin of these poor children. Today, you rarely hear about these deaths because they so rarely occur.
Here is an article below about the “blue baby syndrome”, and it tells about how the blue babies are on the decline since the RhIG shot.

Blue Babies Are Fewer

ATLANTA (AP) — Deaths from “blue baby disease” have dropped dramatically because of the growing use of a drug that was first licensed in 1968, federal health officials say.

The disease, also known as Rh Hemolytic disease, can occur in infants with Rh positive blood being carried by mother with Rh negative blood.

The rate of the disease has dropped from 45 per thousand births in 1970 to 23 per thousand in 1974, the last year for which statistics are available, the report said.

Deaths from the disease declined from 941 in 1968 to 320 in 1974, due largely to more mothers with Rh negative blood having RhIG administered soon after the birth of their first children, the agency said.

First-born children seldom are stricken with the disease, but it occurs with greater frequency with subsequent births, the CDC said.

The sometimes fatal problem can be prevented by Rh immune globulin (RhIG), the CDC said.
The card I carried when I was pregnant.

Many websites refer to people with the RH- type as being blue bloods or apart of the royalty lineage and this is simply due to the fact that many of the children were born blue prior to 1968. There are numerous websites that have also reported that people with RH- blood have more copper in our bodies, but upon researching this topic extensively, I find this to not be true. The term blue blood comes from Spain, as the following excerpt from a website explains.

*************************************************************
Blue blood is an expression from the Spanish phrase "sangre azul," indicating noble birth or descent. This is said to derive from the fact that the native Spanish had fairer skin, which displays veins more prominently, than people of Arab origin. After the Moorish occupation of Spain, intermarriage occurred. The result seems to have been that the aristocracy, particularly certain families in Castille, who would not mix with the Moors, showed rather bluer blood vessels (in, for example, the back of the hand) than the ordinary folk.

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Blue_blood

So the phrase blue blood came to refer to the blood which flowed in the veins of the oldest and most aristocratic families. The phrase was taken over into English in the 1830s. By the time Anthony Trollope used it in The Duke's Children in 1880, it had become common:

http://www.worldwidewords.org/qa/qa-blu1.htm

I find this very interesting considering that Spain is one of the Basque countries, and of course Great Britain is where some of the descendents of the Basque people live. The fact that both countries refer to their royalty as “blue bloods” seems quite suspicious, when we know that both of these areas have many people with RH- blood. Perhaps this is why many websites are connecting the RH negative blood type to the royal blue bloods. In addition to this the Queen of England and her son Prince Charles are rumored to be RH negative, also.

There is no coat of arms on the flask, but somewhere in one of Britain’s hospitals a convalescent patient has some of the world’s most exclusive blood flowing through his or her veins. The regal donor of the precious stuff was Prince Charles, 36, who has become the first member of the royal family ever to give blood, in his case, O Rh-negative. The unprecedented puncturing of royalty was to reassure Britons after a nationwide scare about AIDS caused a drop in donations. At the North London Transfusion Center, the Prince was asked whether he was homosexual, injected drugs into his veins or had had sex with anyone in those two groups. After those regulation indignities (and his negative answers), he had an apprehensive question of his own: "Is it going to hurt?" When the pint was finally drawn, Charles pretended to apologize because his blood was not blue: "I'm afraid it's red like anyone else's." Fancy that.

From the Mar. 18, 1985 issue of TIME magazine

Another connection to the “blue blood” label might have to do with a freak abnormality in the genetics of certain families. I have found a unique story when I was researching about the blue people of the Appalachians. Apparently, there were a few families living in the Kentucky Mountains that had a dark bluish tint in their skin. (Yes, this is true, and I am not making this up.) They are known locally as the blue Fugates, and they had a rare medical condition known as hereditary methemoglobinemia. This is a disease where the person has an enzyme deficiency that reduces the oxygen carrying capacity.
Painting of the Fugate family.

THE BLUE PEOPLE OF TROUBLESOME CREEK

Six generations after a French orphan named Martin Fugate settled on the banks of eastern Kentucky's Troublesome Creek with his redhead American bride, his great-great-great-great grandson was born in a modern hospital not far from where the creek still runs.

The boy inherited his father's lankiness and his mother's slightly nasal way of speaking. What he got from Martin Fugate was dark blue skin. "It was almost purple," his father recalls.

http://www.rootsweb.ancestry.com/~kyperry3/Blue_Fugates_Troublesome_Creek.html

What fascinated me particularly was the fact that Martin Fugate came from France, and upon further research I found out that there was another famous blue family known in Ireland that had hereditary methemoglobinemia. These people were coming from the areas that RH-would be more prevalent and where the Basque genes were present. Could there have been more people with this condition in France and Ireland? I wonder. That could perhaps have something to do with people labeling RH negatives as "blue bloods".

Normally diaphorase converts methemoglobin back to hemoglobin. Scott also concluded that the condition was inherited as a simple recessive trait. In other words, to get the disorder, a person would have to inherit two genes for it, one from each parent. Somebody with only one gene would not have the condition but could pass the gene to a child.

Martin Fugate was a French orphan who emigrated to Kentucky in 1820 to claim a land grant on the wilderness banks of Troublesome Creek. No mention of his skin color is made in the early histories of the area, but family lore has it that Martin himself was blue.

The odds against it were incalculable, but Martin Fugate managed to find and marry a woman who carried the same recessive gene. Elizabeth Smith, apparently, was as pale-skinned as the mountain laurel that blooms every spring around the creek hollows.

Martin and Elizabeth set up housekeeping on the banks of Troublesome and began a family. Of their seven children, four were reported to be blue.

http://www.rootsweb.ancestry.com/~kyperry3/Blue_Fugates_Troublesome_Creek.html

Notice that each parent would have to have the gene for this recessive trait, and we know that Martin Fugate was from France. The article does not say where Elizabeth Smith’s family came from, but with the red hair, I have to wonder about Ireland.

The other famous people with this disease are known as the “blue men of Lurgan” and they lived in Ireland. Here is their story.

The 'blue men of Lurgan' were a pair of Lurgan men suffering from what was described as 'familial idiopathic methaemoglobinaemia' who were treated by Dr. James Deeny in 1942. Deeny, who would later become the Chief Medical Officer of the Republic of Ireland, prescribed a course of ascorbic acid and sodium bicarbonate. In case one, by the eighth day of treatment there was a marked change in appearance and by the twelfth day of treatment the patient's complexion was normal. In case two, the patient's complexion reached normality over a month-long duration of treatment.\[8\]

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Methemoglobinemia

There are many reported characteristics of people with RH negative blood. Here is a list.
1. predominance of green or hazel eyes that change color like a chameleon, but also blue eyes. (I have hazel eyes. What are you?)
2. true red or reddish hair
3. low pulse rate
4. low blood pressure (Always low, so I guess I’m slow.)
5. keen sight or hearing
6. ESP (I knew they were going to say that. No really, I did.)
7. extra rib or vertebrae
8. UFO connections (Beam me up to the mothership, because I’m an alien.)
9. love of space and science (Yep. Is that unusual?)
10. a sense of not belonging to the human race (Oh, yes, the wrong planet syndrome. Sign me up.)
11. piercing eyes (I have some scary photographs, where I look intense.)
12. para-normal occurrences (My mom, grandma and me, that’s normal, right?)
13. physic dreams (My mom and grandmother have had dreams come true.)
14. truth seekers (Does writing this book count?)
15. desire for higher wisdom (Who doesn’t?)
16. empathetic illnesses (Your making me sick.)
17. deep compassion for fate of mankind (Who doesn’t?)
18. a sense of a ‘mission’ in life (Oh yeah. Why did I sign up for this?)
19. physic abilities (If you knew this would be on the list, then answer yes.)
20. unexplained scars on body
21. capability to disrupt electrical appliances (Glad I don’t have this one.)
22. alien contacts (My alien relatives are coming to check up on me.)

Yes, this is for real. I couldn’t make this up even if I tried. If you look up RH negative on the internet, then you’re in for a real good laugh on some of these websites. Some of this list could be true for any blood type, but I have a feeling the person that came up with this list just wants to make our type look really odd and weird. I guess it kind of makes it easier to convince people that RH negative’s are blood sucking reptilians that want to take over the world.

According to some websites, a majority of the people that claim to have been abducted by aliens have the RH- blood type. I personally have never been abducted by aliens, at least not that I know of anyway, but if this is true, then some could see it as proof that we are alien hybrids.

Here are some of the theories of how RH negative blood types started.

1. Atlantis theory (Were descendants of Atlantis.)
2. Reptilian alien theory (We are alien/human hybrids.)
3. Sumerian (The Annunaki gods/aliens made us.)
4. Jesus descendants (Mary Magdalene moved to France with Jesus daughter and a new bloodline was started.)
5. Neanderthal (Descendants of the cavemen. Disproven through DNA test.)
6. Mutation theory (Were a freak of nature.)
7. Descendents of the Nephilim (Human/fallen angels or alien hybrids)

The following chapters will explore these different theories, and I will attempt to show any evidence or lack of evidence. Even though I personally have my favorites, I do believe in the possibility of most of the theories listed, unless evidence has proven the theory to be false. As in the case of the Neanderthal theory, modern DNA test have confirmed that we are not related to the cavemen, so we can delete that from the list. The chapter on “The Cavemen and the Newbies” will give the proof that we didn’t come from the Neanderthal.
Descendents of the Nephilim

First, let’s discuss the history that is put forth in the Bible, because we really need to understand what was really going on back there before we can look at the theory that we are the descendents of the Nephilim. So, put up your feet, relax a spell and take a journey with me into the twilight zone of this very complex reality. I will take you on a roller coaster ride of the most bizarre and the fantastically mysterious path of our ancestors.

Let’s start with the beginning. Shall we? We were created in the image of our God in a beautiful garden in a higher dimension far, far away. We were the caretakers of the plants and the animals and we were very happy, loving and peaceful, but then one day that all changed. God told us that we could eat of any fruit in the garden, except one, and this one tree was strictly forbidden. The villain in this story was played by none other than a sly rodent eating snake being used as a puppet for a devil of an enemy of all mankind. Satan tempts Eve and tells her that they can be like the gods if they eat this freaky fruit. Adam and Eve were tempted by the forbidden fruit of their desires, and they partook in the fruit of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil. God sees that they are physical beings and so he kicks them out of the garden and the fall of mankind had begun. Adam had become a physical being made of the atom, and as a physical man blocking the light, Eve came out of the shadow and the darkness formed the first evening and all was not well. They had just taken a ride through a serpent rope of a wormhole and had taken the highway to hell into this lower dimension of illusions.

Ok, so you are probably thinking I don’t remember all of that happening in my Bible. Alright, so I got carried away a bit, but it happened something like that, anyway read Genesis one through three to get the full version of the story.

To continue the story, Adam and Eve started having children and they became mankind’s first official family or you could call them the first dysfunctional family. They had two sons named Abel and Cain, and Abel was a shepherd, whereas Cain was a farmer. One of the brothers had a very bad case of sibling rivalry, and when I say bad, I mean a horrific jealousy which leads to murder. This is how it starts, Abel brings his sheep or flock to God, but Cain brings him produce from his garden. Apparently God is a meat lover and really likes Abel’s offering, but doesn’t like the vegetables and fruit that Cain gave him, so the jealousy grows inside Cain. But, are we really talking about meat and vegetables here, or could there be something more to this story?

Perhaps it could have gone down like this....you decide. Abel decides that he is going to bring souls back to God and become a shepherd to all these lost sheep, but his stupid brother decides he kind of likes being physical and hanging out in hell and he likes making things from the Earth. Abel decides that he really loves bringing souls back to God, because he is able to do this job for his Father in Heaven. Cain on the other hand, kind of likes using the Earth for his own selfish means and he is partying and “raising cane” to the detriment of the Earth and all life forms. He decides that he doesn’t like what Abel is doing and so he kills him and then goes off to marry a wife in the land of Nod.

“What?” “Wait a minute”, you say.

“Why? What’s wrong with this story?”

You say, “Who did he marry when there was only Adam, Eve and Cain?” “Oh yeah, and how could Abel be bringing souls back to God, when they are the only people here on Earth?”

“Good questions, uhhh, wait a minute why I consult the Bible on this very important questions.” “Ummm. Well, the Bible doesn’t actually say why there are other people on the Earth. They are just there in the land of Nod.”

It doesn’t take a rocket scientist to figure out that many things are missing from “The Bible” at this point, so let’s look at this book as it is today. I’m sure you remember reading in “The Book of Jasher” all about the Cain and Abel story, since this book is talked about in the King James Bible in the books of “Joshua” and “2 Samuel”. Yep that was a really good book, wasn’t it?

“What book are you talking about? That isn’t in my Bible?” You say.

“What? You mean you didn’t read that in your Bible? Well neither did I.”

“I got you, didn’t I?”
Here are the verses. Where is the book?

Joshua 10:13

13 And the sun stood still, and the moon stayed, until the people had avenged themselves upon their enemies. Is not this written in the book of Jasher? So the sun stood still in the midst of heaven, and hasted not to go down about a whole day. (Book of Jasher 88:63-64)

2 Samuel 1:18

18 (Also he bade them teach the children of Judah the use of the bow: behold, it is written in the book of Jasher.) (Book of Jasher 56:9)

Joshua 10:13 poses a question that most people will not be able to answer, because the book is not included in the Bible. I have been fortunate to have bought the book and have read it, so I can actually answer this question. Yes, it was written in the “Book of Jasher”. Here are the verses the Bible quotes.

The Book of Jasher Chap. 88

63 And when they were smiting, the day was declining toward evening, and Joshua said in the sight of all the people, Sun, stand thou still upon Gibeon, and thou moon in the valley of Ajalon, until the nation shall have revenged itself upon its enemies. 64 And the Lord hearkened to the voice of Joshua, and the sun stood still in the midst of the heavens, and it stood still six and thirty moments, and the moon also stood still and hastened not to go down a whole day. 65 And there was no day like that, before it or after it, that the Lord hearkened to the voice of a man, for the Lord fought for Israel.

These books are now referred to as the lost books of the Bible or the rejected books of the Bible. There are many, many mentioned in the Bible but they are nowhere to be found in our Bible. No wonder there are many gaps in the Bible and many stories that aren’t complete, and because of this, we have to fill in the gaps ourselves.

Genesis 4

“And Cain went out from the presence of the LORD, and dwelt in the land of Nod, on the east of Eden.

“And Cain knew his wife; and she conceived, and bare Enoch: and he builded a city, and called the name of the city, after the name of his son, Enoch.

The Bible says that Cain went off to the land of Nod and married his wife, so there had to be other humanoids on the planet before Adam and Eve. This is just plain common sense. Ok, so how did these humanoids get here? Well, the Bible doesn’t say how they came to be, so we are forced to consult other books or information on the matter.
Well, “The Book of Enoch” calls them the spirits of the reprobate (fallen angels) and the children of the watchers (Neanderthal), and apparently they asked Enoch for help, because they realized that they had sinned. “The Book of Enoch” is quite clear that they were the fallen angels, but it does not say when they came here or why they did. Although, the fact that they were there in Enoch’s time, as well, should tell us that they had been here for quite awhile. This was occurring before Noah’s time according to the “The Book of Enoch”, and according to Edgar Cayce’s readings.

In the chapter of Genesis 6, we are told about the mysterious sons of God that came down here to be with the daughters of men. It is very clear that these sons of God are different then the daughters of men, because their offspring is referred to as the giants or mighty men.

Definition of giant

- Main Entry: ˈgi-ant
- Pronunciation: \ˈjī-ənt\
- Function: noun
- Etymology: Middle English giaunt, from Anglo-French geant, from Latin gigant-ˌ, gigas, from Greek
- Date: 14th century
  1: a legendary humanlike being of great stature and strength
  2 a: a living being of great size b: a person of extraordinary powers
  3: something unusually large or powerful

Genesis 6

> And it came to pass, when men began to multiply on the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them,

> That the sons of God saw the daughters of men that they were fair; and they took them wives of all which they chose.

> And the LORD said, My spirit shall not always strive with man, for that he also is flesh: yet his days shall be an hundred and twenty years.

> There were giants in the earth in those days; and also after that, when the sons of God came in unto the daughters of men, and they bare children to them, the same became mighty men which were of old, men of renown.
If we read these verses as a literal truth of the events that were occurring during Noah’s time and not as a myth, then we would be forced into accepting the fact that there was three different species running around the planet Earth. There were the daughters of men, the sons of God (gods or aliens) and the giants (Nephilim- this Hebrew word means the fallen ones. {hybrids} In Asian religions, they are known as the demi-gods.). Could Genesis 6 be recording 2 different species that mate to make a third hybrid species?

The Bible is not the only book to mention these mysterious beings that had come from the sky, and practically every ancient civilization talks about these people with their magical powers and superior strength. From the Sumerians, the Indus civilization, the Egyptians, the Native Americans, the Greeks and the Romans, are hundreds of mythical tales of these mysterious beings. They were called gods to these ancient people, and they tried to explain the supernatural things that these beings could do in their many stories of them.

In “The Book of Enoch the Prophet” it is revealed that the fallen angels had brought secret knowledge to the Humans of Earth, and that they taught them things that they knew from Heaven. This book also talks about the mixing that was going on between the fallen angels and the Humans, and it talks about eradicating this hybrid race with the flood.

BOOK OF ENOCH

[Chapter 9]

6 Thou seest what Azazel hath done, who hath taught all unrighteousness on earth and revealed the eternal secrets which were (preserved) in heaven, which men were striving to learn: 7 And Semjaza, to whom Thou hast given authority to bear rule over his associates. 8 And they have gone to the daughters of men upon the earth, and have slept with the women, and have defiled themselves, and revealed to them all kinds of sins. 9 And the women have borne giants, and the whole earth has thereby been filled with blood and unrighteousness.

Now, let’s fast forward our Earth’s history to the last days of mankind, and read what the Bible has to say about our generation. The Bible records mankind’s history, but it also records mankind’s future, as well, and so we can think of the Bible as being a non linear time device. The Bible is a complete history of mankind’s physical beginning, as well as mankind’s end, and therefore it transcends this linear time in the third dimension.
And there was war in heaven: Michael and his angels fought against the dragon; and the dragon fought and his angels,

And prevailed not; neither was their place found any more in heaven.

And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him.

And I heard a loud voice saying in heaven, Now is come salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of his Christ: for the accuser of our brethren is cast down, which accused them before our God day and night.

And they overcame him by the blood of the Lamb, and by the word of their testimony; and they loved not their lives unto the death.

Therefore rejoice, ye heavens, and ye that dwell in them. Woe to the inhabiters of the earth and of the sea! for the devil is come down unto you, having great wrath, because he knoweth that he hath but a short time.

We see a correlation between the fallen ones or Nephilim coming down to the Earth in Genesis 6 and Revelation 12. This is exactly the way it was before the flood in Noah’s time and the way that it will be in the last days.

Matthew 24

But as the days of Noah were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

Now let’s look at another interpretation of the scriptures. Edgar Cayce was a famous psychic that was able to retrieve information from the higher dimension in a trance. His story of Genesis is different than the Christian perspective of the scriptures. In his readings, he makes it clear that men and women were made in God’s image in the first creation, which he states was a spiritual creation. His readings indicate that the rebellion began almost immediately during the spiritual creation, when the darkness first appeared.

Genesis 1

And the earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters. (The rebellion had begun, and spirits started pushing into a physical form, which blocked the light.)

And God said, Let there be light: and there was light.
And God saw the light, that it was good: and God divided the light from the darkness. (The veil was put in place between the darkness of this lower dimension and the light of the higher dimension.)

According to Cayce’s readings these rebellious angels were the cause of the darkness. This is explainable by the physics of matter, because matter can appear in two forms as a particle or either as a wave. If we are in a wave pattern, then we are spiritual beings, but if we are in a particle form, then we are physical beings of flesh. The wave pattern is invisible and thus it allows the light to flow through, however a particle pattern is visible and it blocks the light and causes a shadow or darkness.

From the readings, we learn that Adam and Eve’s fall to this lower dimension comes through a channel made from God. They would receive instruction by God, whereas the rebellious angels that came into the material world on their own accord did not have God’s instruction.

It therefore seems reasonable that God would create a shepherd race of beings to help liberate souls from the flesh and to return them back home. Could Adam and Eve’s choice to come down here be a part of God’s plan to bring the rebellious Prodigal sons back home? I believe it is definitely possible.

It seems to me like God is then allowing this dark creation by Satan and the fallen angels to be used as a place to learn, rather than destroying it immediately and risking the chance of having it happen again. In other words, he has given us the opportunity to learn from this mistake or error, so that we will understand why we should remain as spiritual beings.

The light that came in Genesis 1:3 is the Christ consciousness, according to Cayce. The Christ consciousness first became physical with Adam, and through him the sons of light came to the physical Earth, although the sons of darkness were already here. Abel chose to follow the sons of light and Cain chose to follow the sons of darkness.

Cayce’s Readings

The other group- those who followed the Law of One- had a standard. The sons of Belial (darkness) had no standard, save of self, self-aggrandizement. (877-26)

The Law of One states that all of God’s Creation act as one. In the original Garden the plants and animals were taken care of and loved, and were never harmed or killed for the selfish needs of another life form. (If you want to learn more about the Cayce perspective on the Bible, then read the book “Edgar Cayce’s Story of the Old Testament” which was written by Robert W. Krajeneke.)

We are in that time that Revelation 12 talks about and that Jesus talks about in Matthew 24, but where are the gods? In Noah’s time, cultures from around the world were writing about these mysterious gods and about how they were mating with the daughters of men to form a hybrid race of giants or mighty men.

In the 1940’s people started to see lights in the sky, and there was a mysterious crash in Roswell, New Mexico. Many people stated that it was a UFO that crashed, however the story suddenly changed and the UFO turned out to be just a weather balloon. Did the US government believe that they could cover up this story? Since this time the UFO’s have increased, and certain people have reported that they have been abducted by the aliens. Some of the abductees report a positive experience and some have reported a negative experience. Many have claimed that these aliens are trying to make a hybrid race, which sounds familiar with the Noah story. Are the gods here again? It would seem that they are indeed making an appearance behind the scenes. Will they ever make an outward appearance again? Well, Jesus said that it would be like the days of Noah, and the gods were visiting the Earth at that time, so it seems like they will make themselves known again.

Since the beginning of the last century, mankind took a giant leap forward in their knowledge and was beginning to learn the secrets of the universe. We learned to use electromagnetic energy for electricity; the knowledge of the atom was used for weapons of mass destruction and for electricity, we discovered the technology to fly in the sky and to go to the moon, we developed new inventions to communicate with one another on a global scale, learned to clone animals and we invented the computer and the internet and much, much more. Where did all of this sudden knowledge come from and why is it increasing at such a quick pace?

6 Thou seest what Azazel hath done, who hath taught all unrighteousness on earth and revealed the eternal secrets which were (preserved) in heaven, which men were striving to learn:

Are we striving to learn the secrets? It would seem to be the case.

Where are the hybrids? Some people say that the genetics of the gods are still present in modern day man, and some point to the RH negative factor as proof. Other people say that we all have some of the genetics passed on to us from the mixing that was going on in the past between the gods (fallen angels) and humans. The theory that RH negative blood is a carryover from the day of the humans and gods marrying and having hybrid children together comes from Joshua David. Here is an excerpt from an article about the theory.

(Free-Press-Release.com) July 16, 2008 --
BEVERLY HILLS CA - Rh-negative blood is more than just a blood type according to Rh-negative thinktank, Joshua David, an Oral Roberts University alumni from Beverly Hills who claims to have the blood type flowing in his veins.

Joshua claims from the Biblical quotes that, Rh-negative blood originated from the Watcher angels who interbred with human women during the pre-flood era, eventually producing giants known as nephilims. The watcher angels were quoted as such in the book of Enoch and as "sons of God" in Genesis 6,4. The allele pattern of this genetic survival has led to speculations of Rh-negative genes passed on to Enoch, Noah and the post-flood humanity. The blood of Jesus is sourced as Rh-negative (AB) from the shroud evidence.

The mystery is acknowledged by Joshua as the work of the Holy Spirit whom Jesus was conceived by (whether partially or fully from genetics perspective), and so possibly explains the origin of angels with mortal characteristics who has always been under God the Holy Spirit (the third person in the Trinity) also known as Lord of the Spirit.

Ok, so Joshua is saying that because Cain married a fallen angel that Enoch must have got the RH- blood type and from there it got passed on to Noah and to the post flood humanity. Joshua got this from “The Book of Enoch” in which there is a fragment of “The Book of Noah”, which talks about the fact that Noah was different. Noah was a white man with a reddish tint and his hair was white, but some people suggest that the writer may have been referring to blond hair. Blond hair can appear white in the sunlight. Of course, we know that Caucasians are white skinned with a reddish to pink tint to their skin, because of the arteries underneath the skin. This would suggest that the hybrids or the children of the watchers are a white skinned people. Which race of people has the highest percentage of RH negative blood? The white race or Caucasians typically have the most of the RH negative factor.

Here is an excerpt from “The Book of Noah”.

FRAGMENT OF THE BOOK OF NOAH

CHAPTER CVI.

1. And after some days my son Methuselah took a wife for his son Lamech, and she became pregnant by him and bore a son. 2. And his... body was white as snow and red as the blooming of a rose, and the hair of his head + and his long locks were white as wool, and his eyes beautiful†. And when he opened his eyes, he lighted up the whole house like the sun, and the whole house was very bright. 3. And thereupon he arose in the hands of the midwife, opened his mouth, and †conversed with† the Lord of righteousness. 4. And his father Lamech was afraid of him and fled, and came to his father Methuselah.
5. And he said unto him: ‘I have begotten a strange son, diverse from and unlike man, and resembling the sons of the God of heaven; and his nature is different and he is not like us, and his eyes are as the rays of the sun, and his countenance is glorious. 6. And it seems to me that he is not sprung from me but from the angels, and I fear that in his days a wonder may be wrought on the earth. 7. And now, my father, I am here to petition thee and implore thee that thou mayest go to Enoch, our father, and learn from him the truth, for his dwelling-place is amongst the angels.’

Notice that Noah sounds a lot like Jesus during the transfiguration, because he shone light like the sun. There were also others in the Bible that did this as well, and one of the people that shone like the light was Moses. Here are some quotes from the Bible.

Matthew 17

1. And was transfigured before them: and his face did shine as the sun, and his raiment was white as the light.

2. And, behold, there appeared unto them Moses and Elias talking with him.

Exodus 34

1. And it came to pass, when Moses came down from mount Sinai with the two tables of testimony in Moses' hand, when he came down from the mount, that Moses wist not that the skin of his face shone while he talked with him.

2. And when Aaron and all the children of Israel saw Moses, behold, the skin of his face shone; and they were afraid to come nigh him.

3. And the children of Israel saw the face of Moses, that the skin of Moses' face shone: and Moses put the vail upon his face again, until he went in to speak with him.

If Adam and Eve represented a new race of people that was created among the fallen angel race, then Cain polluted God’s race by mating with a fallen angel. This is probably what created the Neanderthal people, because a hybrid race was born between Cain and a fallen angel. God’s race of people then had to live in a world with the fallen angels and the hybrids or Giants.
God tried to get rid of the hybrids with the flood, but preserved his race through Noah, which came through the line of Seth.

*These are the generations of Noah: Noah was a just man and perfect in his generations, and Noah walked with God.

Noah was perfect in his generations, which means his genetic line had not been polluted by the fallen angels. In other words, Noah came from the line of Seth and not from the line of Cain. Now, here is where Joshua David’s theory that Noah was a part of the hybrid line, goes way off course. This is not Joshua’s fault, because both lines have an Enoch and a Lamech, which can be confusing. Here is the proof that Noah comes from the line of Seth. I will also include Cain’s line, so you can compare.

Cain’s Descendants

And Cain knew his wife; and she conceived, and bare Enoch: and he builded a city, and called the name of the city, after the name of his son, Enoch.

And unto Enoch was born Irad: and Irad begat Mehujael: and Mehujael begat Methusael: and Methusael begat Lamech.

And Lamech took unto him two wives: the name of the one was Adah, and the name of the other Zillah.

And Adah bare Jabal: he was the father of such as dwell in tents, and of such as have cattle.

And his brother’s name was Jubal: he was the father of all such as handle the harp and organ.

And Zillah, she also bare Tubalcain, an instructer of every artificer in brass and iron: and the sister of Tubalcain was Naamah.

Seth’s Descendants

And Seth lived an hundred and five years, and begat Enos.

And Seth lived after he begat Enos eight hundred and seven years, and begat sons and daughters:
And all the days of Seth were nine hundred and twelve years: and he died.

And Enos lived ninety years, and begat Cainan.

And Enos lived after he begat Cainan eight hundred and fifteen years, and begat sons and daughters:
And all the days of Enos were nine hundred and five years: and he died.

And Cainan lived seventy years and begat Mahalaleel.

And Cainan lived after he begat Mahalaleel eight hundred and forty years, and begat sons and daughters:
“And all the days of Cainan were nine hundred and ten years: and he died.

“And Mahalaleel lived sixty and five years, and begat Jared:

“And Mahalaleel lived after he begat Jared eight hundred and thirty years, and begat sons and daughters:

“And all the days of Mahalaleel were eight hundred ninety and five years: and he died.

“And Jared lived an hundred sixty and two years, and he begat Enoch:

“And Jared lived after he begat Enoch eight hundred years, and begat sons and daughters:

“And all the days of Jared were nine hundred sixty and two years: and he died.

“And Enoch lived sixty and five years, and begat Methuselah:

“And Enoch walked with God after he begat Methuselah three hundred years, and begat sons and daughters:

“And all the days of Enoch were three hundred sixty and five years:

“And Enoch walked with God: and he was not; for God took him.

“And Methuselah lived an hundred eighty and seven years, and begat Lamech.

“And Methuselah lived after he begat Lamech seven hundred eighty and two years, and begat sons and daughters:

“And all the days of Methuselah were nine hundred sixty and nine years: and he died.

“And Lamech lived an hundred eighty and two years, and begat a son:

“And he called his name Noah, saying, This same shall comfort us concerning our work and toil of our hands, because of the ground which the LORD hath cursed.

In Cain’s descendants and in Seth’s descendants there are two names that are the same and those are Enoch and Lamech. That alone can cause quite a lot of confusion, but as you can see the Enoch that ascended was a descendant of Seth. Enoch was of the pure race that came from Adam and Eve.

The conclusion from all of this research shows that the hybrid race of Nephilims probably descended from Cain’s line and not from Seth’s line. If the Neanderthals are indeed the Nephilims, then their species died out a long time ago.

This chapter has shown our Human history from the viewpoint of the Jewish books, however every culture at the time was writing about these mysterious gods and the hybrids. I believe this history to be an accurate account of our Earth history, and it isn’t a global delusional myth. People from all over the world wrote about these mysterious gods, and many cultures were completely cut off from the other parts of the Earth. Whether you choose to call these gods, fallen angels or aliens doesn’t really matter, because aliens simply means that these beings weren’t from this physical Earth and these fallen angels weren’t from here.

The next chapter goes beyond the words of the ancients and explores the science behind this mystery. We will find out what happened to Cain’s descendants, which we call the Neanderthal people.

The Cavemen and the Newbies

Now, instead of bringing this proof from the Bible or the Book of Enoch, let’s look at where the physical proof leads us. If Cain married a fallen angel, then the hybrids started from him and his descendants. Do we have any proof that there was another species living during the time of the early humans? Of course we do, and many archeologists have found their bones all around the Middle East and Europe. This species is called the Neanderthal people. Many Christian’s don’t want to learn about these people for fear that this goes against the Bible’s scriptures, however these people fit perfectly into the stories in the Bible. Evolutionist have tried to use this species to provide proof of their theories that the Neanderthals evolved from the apes and we came from the Neanderthals, but the new DNA proof goes against that theory.

What does the science of genetics tell us about the Neanderthal? Basically the science does confirm that we modern humans aren’t related to the Neanderthal people. These studies also suggest that there wasn’t much interbreeding of our two species if any at all, because there is no genetic proof in our DNA. Remember God brought forth the flood to try to destroy the hybrids, and then he taught the Jews to not mix with this other race of people. Eventually, we know that the Neanderthal species did completely die out, and we became the dominant species.

Here are some articles that tell about the research being done on the Neanderthals DNA and about how their DNA compares to our own DNA.

Neandertal DNA
July 29, 1997
by Mark Rose

Despite this evidence for cultural exchange, a study of temporal bones from Arcy-sur-Cure and other sites indicates significant differences between Neandertals and modern humans, suggesting interbreeding did not occur (see "Neandertal News," ARCHAEOLOGY, September/October 1996).

If Neandertals made a significant genetic contribution to modern humans, similarities should exist between DNA of Neandertals and that of people from Europe, where the Neandertals persisted the longest. Pääbo and his colleagues compared the Neandertal DNA to that from five modern populations, but it proved no closer to DNA from modern Europeans than to that from four other groups. While this does not rule out the possibility of Neandertal and modern human mixing, it suggests that the Neandertal genetic contribution to modern gene pools, if any, was small.

Neanderthals Didn't Mate With Modern Humans, Study Says

“The study shows that "at least for the maternal lineage, there are no traceable genetic markers that suggest admixture of Neanderthals and modern humans," he said.”

*************************************************************

Eventually, we do know that the Neanderthals became extinct, and that God’s race prevailed. Here is what we are not sure of at this point in time. Even if the Neanderthals did not contribute to Human’s modern day DNA, we still don’t know if there could have been some sporadic mating going on between the two species. The Neanderthals have been proven to be genetically different from Humans, but some interbreeding could have occurred. This may mean that there could have been another species that lived back then, and they would have been a Human/ Neanderthal hybrid. They would have been from the line of Adam and Eve and Cain. This is a real possibility.

1) Neanderthals (angels/human species) Satan’s creation. Died out.
2) Humans (Adam & Eve) God’s creation.
3) Human/ Neanderthal hybrid 50/50

Apparently 85% of Humans have the blood type RH positive, which we know test positive for the Rhesus monkey protein on their red blood cells, and 15% of Humans do not have this protein and are labeled as RH negative. Out of the 85% are people who carry the genetics for RH negative and they carry in their DNA RH negative recessive genes.

Many people have theorized that people with RH- blood types are descendants of the Neanderthal people, but the study of the Neanderthal’s Genome has proven that modern man did not mix with them enough to even contribute to our genes. They also compared their DNA to many Europeans, since the Neanderthal occupied the area that is now known as Europe. The theory was that they might find more of a connection between Europeans and the Neanderthal, than any other Human group, but the test proved that there was no more of a genetic connection to modern Europeans than any other Human races around the world.

The conclusion is that RH- people are not descendants of the Neanderthal, and this is not where we get this rare blood type. This new research also completely disproves that we have evolved from the Neanderthal, so evolutionist will probably have a problem with the results of this study.

Let’s take a look at the habitat of the Neanderthal people.
Here are the areas that Neanderthal skeletons have been found, and notice that the Middle East was a hot zone. Is it any wonder why our Bible talks about the hybrid giants that occupied some of Israel? We see that these books in the Bible were not making this stuff up, and these ancient people were dealing with another species that was different than they were and it was scary to them. Archeologist and geneticist have proven that all of these stories are true and these stories can no longer be considered as mere myths.

Although, the skeletons of the Neanderthal show some differences between modern Humans, they are not what we would expect from the descriptions in our Bible. The Neanderthal weren’t physically taller, but they were more stocky and muscular, however some bones have been found that were noticeably taller than us. I have not heard of any DNA extractions from the giant bones that have been found, so we don’t yet know if these giant bones were from the Neanderthal species, but I would expect that they would be. Although, until proof can be given either way, this is merely conjecture on my part, but I am hopeful that more genetic test will reveal the truth.

Here is a photo of a giant humanoid bone that has been found in Turkey.
With the evidence that we do have, however, we can ultimately conclude that there was indeed a species of considerable difference to the Homo sapiens. I have seen pictures of body builders with their muscles bulging, and it is enough to make you wonder, how the Homo sapiens would have reacted to a more muscular humanoid. If you were surrounded by a group of body builders, and you weren’t muscular, then how would you feel? I would feel out of place and small.

All of the evidence, so far, still doesn’t rule out the possibility of Neanderthal giants, but more tests do need to be carried out on any giant humanoid bones. Of course, even with us modern day Homo sapiens, giants do exist in our species, so perhaps this was occurring with the Neanderthals also. Some people like to surmise that the giants of our species come from the hybrid giants in the Bible, but of course there is no proof of that at all.

The next chapter covers a widely popular theory on the internet, but I must confess it is a crazy theory that has absolutely no proof to back it up. However, I am still covering this theory none the less, because if anything I can shed some light on this subject and uncover the real truth.
Cain’s race and Adam & Eve’s Race

If You Drink Blood and Shapeshift......You Might Be an Alien
There is a weird theory going around the internet these days, and I must say this theory is one that doesn’t have a lot of proof to back it up. For instance, this theory states that RH negatives are the descendents of reptilian aliens and Human hybrids, and that RH- people drink blood, shapeshift and are actively seeking to control the world. If you are an RH- person, then you might want to see if you fit into this checklist.

If you can keep from laughing long enough to do this, then check this list.

1. Drink blood. (Does wine that symbolizes Christ blood count? No.)
2. Shapeshifting (Does dieting, exercising and plastic surgery count? No. You need to be able to change your body rapidly.)
3. Do you seek world domination?
4. Do you practice human sacrifice?

If you answered yes to all of these questions, then you might be an alien. Congratulations! You might want to beam up to the mothership now. Please!

The first time I read this stuff on the internet, I was very perplexed by it all. I have RH- blood, so I knew that I didn’t do any of the things that these people said about us. At first, I thought this has to be a joke, but then I discovered that these pages seemed to dominate the search engines for where the RH negative blood originates. I realized these people are serious and they really believe this stuff, and yet I could find no proof anywhere of the kind of stuff that they were saying, page after page after page.

Some suggest the Rh-Negative Hybrids came from the DRACO Caverns in the Carpathian Mountains and are mostly red-headed people with green eyes; but some may have black hair and brown eyes.

One of the claims of this theory is that we came from the Carpathian Mountains at somewhere called the Draco caverns. Upon researching this mountain range I found out that it is located in the eastern part of Europe, which would put it a great distance away from the Basque people of Spain and France. If this were true wouldn’t the Basque people be living in that area instead of the southwestern part of Europe?

As you can see from the map above, the Carpathian mountain range goes through the countries of Poland, Ukraine and Romania. Upon looking at this map, my eyes automatically went to Romania, because I immediately locked on to the inside joke. Of course, the famous Vlad Dracula came from Romania, and we all know about the legend of this blood drinking prince. It is obvious that people that believe the theory that RH- people are reptile hybrids and that they drink blood are the very same people that are going to put our origins in the area where Dracula once lived.
We know that a majority of the RH- people actually came out of France and Spain in the Basque region and not the Carpathian mountains; so of course, this has been totally made up by a group of people that wish to demonize the RH negative people.

Why would people want to make RH negative people look demonic? What is the real reason behind the reptilian agenda?

Let’s take a look at the person that is responsible for the reptilian theory. His name is David Icke, and he believes that there is a reptilian race controlling everything that happens here. Upon researching his reptilian theory, I have not yet found anything where he says that RH negative people are reptilian hybrids, but his followers are saying this on his forums.

I agree with David Icke that the sons of God (demons, fallen angels, aliens) are on the Earth at this time and that they possess certain people in power, but I draw the line at people who say that RH negative blood types are the only kinds of people that can be possessed by a demon. Our souls control our bodies and all souls have their own wills and our power is in our choices. No spiritual beings or physical beings can force us to serve evil forces without our approval. We can either choose God’s way or Satan’s way and genetics or blood types have little to do with what we will choose.

If the sons of God were more of a reptile species, then why wouldn’t Neanderthals look more like a reptile than a human? It seems to me that the sons of God would have to be more of a humanoid species in order to be compatible for our two species to mate. The Neanderthals did not look reptilian in any way and there skeletons show that they were a humanoid species.

Let’s look at their list which they say proves that RH negatives are reptilian hybrids.

Strange Facts Concerning Rh-Negatives
• Rh-Negatives are not only rare, but the Rh-Negative Factor is considered a mutation of unknown origin which took place in Europe approximately 25,000-35,000 years ago. This unusual group of people then spread heavily into the area of what is now Spain, England, Ireland, etc. (True)
• Rh-negative women with a Rh-positive partners are at RISK of spontaneous miscarriage and other fetus REJECTION events. (True)
• An Rh-negative woman with an Rh-negative partner has even a smaller chance of having a Baby born alive! In animals this is a problem with HYBRIDS! (False. Two RH negatives have no problems having a baby.)
• Rh-negative women and men display Reptilian Traits:
○ An EXTRA-Vertebra (a "Tail Bone"). Some are born with an actual tail (called a "Cauda"). In Sanskrit, Ketuu = The south Lunar Node, also known as Cauda/Draconis, in latin, "dragon's tail" in English. (Any race can have this birth defect.)

○ Lower than normal Body Temperature  (The average body temperature for all humans varies throughout the day.)

○ Lower than normal Blood Pressure

○ Higher mental analytical abilities

○ Higher Negative-ion shielding (from positive "charged" virus/bacteria) around the body

○ High Sensitivity to EM and ELF Fields

○ Hyper Vision and other senses

• Most Alien Abductees are Rh-Negatives. Are the gods/aliens monitoring the growth and activities of their hybrid creations?

* There is also the claim that people who are RH- are more apt to be born with an extra vertebra or tail bone, and some people are actually born with a tail. Upon researching this topic, I found that this is actually a rare occurrence, and only 23 cases of a vestigial tail have been reported.

In rare cases congenital defect results in a short tail-like structure being present at birth. Twenty-three cases of human babies born with such a structure have been reported in the medical literature since 1884. [7][8]

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Human_vestigiality#Coccyx
I have found two incidences of a child from India and a Cambodian child that have a tail, which proves that there are people born with this birth defect in Asia. Since only 1% of Asians have RH- blood, this is proof that this birth defect affects other people worldwide and is not just in Caucasians’, as some people have suggested.

Actually though, all Humans have a tail in the womb during their development which eventually disappears, so this seems to be a genetic trait in our embryonic stage of growth.

In the above picture a rudimentary heart has already formed, as well as an early eye. The tail will disappear within a few weeks, but a few small taillike shrunken vertebrae stay behind permanently.

http://www.silentscream.org/developm.htm
Every human being has a tailbone under their Pelvis.

I know that whoever made up this list was trying to link Humans and reptiles, since reptiles have a tail, but all Humans develop a tail in the womb. When we were developing in the womb we go through stages that makes us look like a reptile or even an alien, but it doesn’t mean that we are.

Another point that they have to prove that we are hybrids is that they say that two RH negative people can’t have a baby. This is not true, because it is a mother with RH negative and a father with RH positive that causes miscarriages. If both parents are RH negative, then the mother doesn’t need to have a rhoGAM shot and there is no danger to the child, because the mother and the child will both have the same blood type of RH negative.

However the fact that the two different RH types have trouble mating could denote that there are two different species trying to procreate, but the fact that two RH negatives have no problems with having a baby means they can’t be hybrids.
The list says that we have a lower temperature than other people, but fails to explain that all people’s temperatures fluctuate normally throughout the day. Apparently the person that made up this list had never researched anything that they were putting on their list, but they were just trying to make us look cold blooded like a reptile by trying to say we had a lower temperature than most Humans. Unfortunately, this person was too ignorant to know the difference between warm blooded mammals and cold blooded reptiles. A Human’s temperature stays around the same narrow range at a constant temperature, whereas a reptile’s temperature takes on the temperature of their surroundings. In other words, when it is hot, a reptile’s temperature is warm and when it is cold, then their temperature is cold.

*********************************************************

Body temperature normally fluctuates over the day, with the lowest levels around 4 a.m. and the highest in the late afternoon, between 4:00 and 6:00 p.m. (assuming the person sleeps at night and stays awake during the day). Therefore, an oral temperature of 37.2 °C (99.0 °F) would, strictly speaking, be normal in the afternoon but not in the morning. An individual’s body temperature typically changes by about 0.5 °C (0.9 °F) between its highest and lowest points each day.

*********************************************************

I believe this theory has no proof to back it up, but every person has the right to believe whatever they want, no matter how foolish it might be. I believe that we should research everything that we are not sure about, because this is the only way that we can find the answers to our questions. If in doubt, check it out, and you will know the truth.

The next chapter will be covering the theory of a new genetic line that emerged out of Europe.

Not my ancestor.

Jesus Descendents

This theory is controversial, however much of Jesus life is unknown to us and it is possible that Jesus could have married and had children. The Gospels talk about Jesus birth, then it fast forwards to Jesus at twelve years of age and then fast forwards to his life from age 30 to his death at 33. If anyone wrote about their life and only included their birth, one incident at age twelve and finished with the last three years of their life, then you wouldn’t really feel as if you knew all about them. But this is exactly what we get in the Bible, and learning about glimpses and pieces of someone’s life is not enough to really teach us about his lifetime. We don’t know what books he studied, other than the Torah or anything about the process he went through to eventually become the Christ or the Messiah. He got baptized at age 30, and then went on to teach the word of God to people, but we don’t know how he acquired his vast knowledge of the scriptures or if he studied and prepared to become a rabbi or priest. We, as Christians, are supposed to learn from his example, so how can we understand about the process he used when he learned how to heal or how he connected with God and the Angels? It seems to me that all of the details that led him to become Christ have been erased from his record and all we have is mainly his teachings for the last three years after he became Christ.

What if I decided to watch the movie “Gandhi” and I only watched the last ten minutes of the movie. I would see Gandhi fasting until the violence and fighting ends between the Muslims and the Hindu in India. Then the film shows him going out to the people to offer a prayer and someone approaches him with a gun in his hands and fires it at Gandhi. The final scene ends with a crowd gathered at Gandhi’s funeral and his body is burning in a huge bonfire.

We know even from the last ten minutes of the film that this man has done some great things, but we don’t see how he won India’s independence from British rule. We do see how he used non-violence by fasting to convince both the Hindus and the Muslims to quit fighting one another in the interest of saving one man’s life, which both sides have a tremendous amount of respect for Gandhi. We can learn a great deal from the last ten minutes, but we also lose so much more information that could enhance our lives even further. Gone is the trial and errors of his life, gone are the mistakes, gone are the rejections he must have faced, gone is the process by which he changed his life, but the last ten minutes are enough to teach us about how his practice of protesting with non-violence can bring about peace.

Well, this is what we get with Jesus life, and it is so edited that we only get bits and pieces of his last three years. It is enough to teach us how we should live our lives, but we don’t get the process of how he got there. We get the spectacular miracles and get all these profound words and wisdom, but what we are not getting is the information on how he got to this wonderful place in his life. It is kind of like getting all the rewards without having done anything to achieve them. Where are his struggles and the self doubt he must have encountered and where is the journey that led him into the Promised Land. It is only half of the story. It is a self help book, without all the process to prepare us and without all the failures. We get a glimpse into a man that has perfected himself in the eyes of God, but what we don’t get is the ways to get there ourselves.

Did the Catholic Church make an effort to destroy the writings about the details of Jesus life? If they did, what would be the reasons to do so?

There is an old Chinese proverb that says, “Give a man a fish and you feed him for a day. Teach a man to fish and you feed him for a lifetime.” What happens if you give a man a fish without teaching him how to fish for himself? Well, they become dependent on you to feed them their supper. By erasing the process that Jesus went through to become Christ, the Catholic Church sought to make every Christian dependent upon the church. This might be why we are only given the condensed version of Jesus life, rather than the full story of his life. Fortunately though, Jesus gives us enough clues in his parables of his last three years to help us discover the process on our own. For those that seek, they will find the way.

Let’s look at the scriptures about the last supper.

Matthew 26

26 And as they were eating, Jesus took bread, and blessed it, and brake it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat; this is my body. (bread from Heaven, manna or monatomic elements.)

27 And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying, Drink ye all of it;

28 For this is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many for the remission of sins.

29 But I say unto you, I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine, until that day when I drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom.

30 And when they had sung an hymn, they went out into the mount of Olives.

31 Then saith Jesus unto them, All ye shall be offended because of me this night; for it is written, I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock shall be scattered abroad.
The wine that the Apostles drink represents the blood of Jesus Christ, which is shed for many to remit their sins. Here Jesus is giving us a clue to what the wine made from the vineyard in his parables really means. He refers to the wine that he will not drink as the fruit of the vine, and when he does that we are supposed to remember the parable where he says he is the vine. He also gives another clue that is prophetic when he says that the flock will be scattered abroad.

John 15:5 I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me ye can do nothing.

He has given a few parables that involved vineyards, but we know that in Jesus parables that a vineyard isn’t always a vineyard and that a fish isn’t always just a fish. Everything was encoded to provide a deep multipurpose meaning, and from so many different levels of truth. You can read parables as a literal lesson and learn from it greatly or you can learn from it symbolically. Each parable can apply to an individual or can apply to a community, and a parable can even be prophetic, as well. If we view the word vineyard to mean the bloodline of the Jews, then new meanings will appear.

In Matthew 21, Jesus tells us about a new vineyard being planted and at the same time he shows prophetically about what is going to happen to him in the future. Then in John 15, he tells us that he is the vine in this new vineyard, so what is he really trying to say? Let’s read this parable with the idea that a new bloodline is being started.

Matthew 21:33-41

> "Hear another parable: There was a certain householder, which planted a vineyard, and hedged it round about, and digged a winepress in it, and built a tower, and let it out to husbandmen, and went into a far country:

> "And when the time of the fruit drew near, he sent his servants to the husbandmen, that they might receive the fruits of it.

> "And the husbandmen took his servants, and beat one, and killed another, and stoned another.

> "Again, he sent other servants more than the first: and they did unto them likewise.

> "But last of all he sent unto them his son, saying, They will reverence my son. (This is Jesus.)

> "But when the husbandmen saw the son, they said among themselves, This is the heir; come, let us kill him, and let us seize on his inheritance. (They killed Jesus.)
And they caught him, and cast him out of the vineyard, and slew him. (He was killed by his own people the Jews, which were chosen by God.)

When the lord therefore of the vineyard cometh, what will he do unto those husbandmen?

They say unto him, He will miserably destroy those wicked men, and will let out his vineyard unto other husbandmen, which shall render him the fruits in their seasons. (He gives the vineyard to other people or the gentiles. Did the Jews lose their vineyard?)

In another parable, he changes the meaning of the vineyard, and in this story he says that he is the vine and we readers are the branches. Well, the gospels are not talking to the Jews, so who is Christ talking to at this point? He is talking to the Christians and the Muslims, because both religions read the gospels of Jesus Christ, but most Jews do not. In this vineyard story, Jesus says that the husbandman is the Father. In other words, we learn that God is the caretaker of this vineyard, and the vine is Christ and his followers are the branches which produce the precious fruit of the vine. Again though, there could be another meaning to these vineyard stories that are prophetic.

John 15

1 I am the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman.

2 Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away: and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit.

3 Now ye are clean through the word which I have spoken unto you.

4 Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me.

5 I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me ye can do nothing. (Christ is the vine and his blood is the wine.)

If the vineyard means the bloodline of the Jews, then where did the bloodline go after Jesus was crucified? Well, Jesus represented a new start or a new testament for mankind, and he was rejected by the Jews, so did the new bloodline go over to the gentiles? Again there is some proof from Jesus words after the last supper.

Matthew 26

Then saith Jesus unto them, All ye shall be offended because of me this night: for it is written, I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock shall be scattered abroad.

The flock or Jews will be scattered abroad, and Jesus even says that people will be offended for what is about to happen. Where did the new flock go? If Jesus Christ represents a new vineyard, then a new bloodline must have been started.

What is different about Jesus birth? His genetics were different then all that came before him, because he had a human Mother and a spiritual Father. Jesus had DNA from a terrestrial source and from an extraterrestrial source, so he wasn’t completely human. He was half physical and half spiritual, so he bridged a gap between the two.

The picture Bible code also shows that Jesus (Yeshua in Hebrew) had one strand of his DNA that was human and the other strand came from God.

http://www.bible-codes.org/dna-code.htm

The top word, "Yeshua," is beside the word "I AM." (the name of God as revealed at the burning bush). (See the first part in this series.). These two names, in turn, are zippered together by the name "Jehovah." The joining together of Yeshua and I AM by the name "Jehovah" is thereby expressing the divinity of Yeshua. (Note arrows of bible-codes matrix on right.)

At the bottom in exact mirror opposite (and sharing the same middle letters with the top portion), it reads "Elijah" (i.e., who foreshadowed John the Baptist), and is next to "Yeshua," (who was the prophet to come "likened unto Moses"), joined together by the word: "He-will-be-joined," (i.e., to the human race:), thereby expressing the humanity of Yeshua. Therefore, the zipper together of "I AM" (i.e., the name of God) with "Yeshua" by the name "Jehovah," at the top of the code, signifies divinity, whereas the zipper together by the word, "He-will-be-joined," of "Yeshua" and "Elijah" (meaning, "My God is Jehovah"), at the bottom, signifies humanity. Six names in all, spelt or implied, all intersecting at the middle in exactly the same way, each name in their own fitting location of being either up or down in relationship to one another within the bible code!

Moreover, zigzagging the opposite way of where it reads, "Jehovah" and "He will be joined", it also reads both forward and backward, "I will save. He will forgive". (Note that Jesus name means, "Jehovah will save"). For more on the two zigzagging aspects of this bible code see, DNA-Code: "The Book/Scroll of Life!"

Matthew 1

"Now the birth of Jesus Christ was on this wise: When as his mother Mary was espoused to Joseph, before they came together, she was found with child of the Holy Ghost.

Then Joseph her husband, being a just man, and not willing to make her a public example, was minded to put her away privily.

But while he thought on these things, behold, the angel of the LORD appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Joseph, thou son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife: for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost.

And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name JESUS: for he shall save his people from their sins.

Now all this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying,

Behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us.

Then Joseph being raised from sleep did as the angel of the Lord had bidden him, and took unto him his wife:

And knew her not till she had brought forth her firstborn son: and he called his name JESUS.

The scriptures say that he came from the Holy Ghost, which represents the word of God. This was nothing like the human’s that mated with the fallen angels, because Mary was a virgin. She did not mate with anyone, but it was the word of God that made her pregnant. Adam and Eve were spoken into existence in the first chapter of Genesis, so what happened to Jesus was similar to the way that Adam and Eve had been made, except he was half human. God put his new DNA sequence into Mary’s egg by his words or programming. Jesus blood was different than all that came before him.

If God did make a new bloodline, then wouldn’t Jesus have married and had children to pass it on to his future descendants? I am not trying to offend anyone here, but falling in love, marrying and having children has never been called a sin. The Catholic Church wants us to believe that Jesus was celibate, but was that what the Jews often practiced? No, they were told that God would multiply them and make them fruitful.

Genesis 17
And when Abram was ninety years old and nine, the LORD appeared to Abram, and said unto him, I am the Almighty God; walk before me, and be thou perfect.

And I will make my covenant between me and thee, and will multiply thee exceedingly.

And Abram fell on his face: and God talked with him, saying,

As for me, behold, my covenant is with thee, and thou shalt be a father of many nations. (Abraham is not the father of just Israel, but many nations.)

Neither shall thy name any more be called Abram, but thy name shall be Abraham; for a father of many nations have I made thee.

And I will make thee exceeding fruitful, and I will make nations of thee, and kings shall come out of thee.

Time and time again we see where God is telling the Jews to be fruitful and to multiply. As a Jew, Jesus would have followed the same practices as the Jewish people, and he was always trying to fulfill the scriptures in the Old Testament.

Genesis 9:7 And you, be ye fruitful, and multiply; bring forth abundantly in the earth, and multiply therein.

There is the theory that Jesus married Mary Magdalene and that they had children together. The story has been told generation after generation in France about Mary Magdalene moving there after Jesus was crucified. All over southern France, Mary is remembered in cathedrals and there is a special feast day for Mary Magdalene on July 22 of each year.

This website tells the many French legends of Mary Magdalene.
Another story says the Grail was the cup held aloft by Joseph of Arimathea at the foot of the cross to catch streams of blood flowing from the wounds of the dying Savior. Still another legend insists that it was Mary Magdalene who held the cup at the foot of the cross and caught the blood of Christ in her precious jar. One version of the story claims that Mary Magdalene, traveling under the protection of her brother Lazarus and Joseph of Arimathea, brought the Holy Grail to the coast of France. On one point, many of the legends seem to agree: the Grail was a sacred vessel, holy because it once contained the blood of Jesus. For centuries this elusive artifact has been sought relentlessly, and several antique cups have even been claimed to be the true Grail of Christ.

I am particularly intrigued by the medieval legend, indigenous to the Southern coast of France, that Mary Magdalene was the bearer of the "sangraal," the Old French word translated "holy grail." Surviving versions of the legend says that this woman, the devoted follower of Jesus who was first to encounter him on Easter morning, traveled with a group of family and close friends into exile, fleeing persecutions of Christians in A.D. 42. The little group arrived on the Mediterranean Coast of Gaul in a boat with no oars after narrowly escaping death during a storm at sea. With them on the boat was a pre-adolescent child named Sarah, commemorated today with a statue and celebration on her feastday, 24 May, in the little French town of Les Stes-Marie-de-la-Mer. This girl child is known as "Sarah the Egyptian." The legend assumes that Sarah was maidservant to the three Maries--Mary Magdalene, Mary Salome and Mary Jacobi--who are celebrated for bringing Christianity to the Roman province known as Gaul. A colorful Gipsy folk festival has grown up around this legend celebrating the arrival of these refugees from Jerusalem, including Lazarus and Martha, brother and sister of the Mary known to Christians as "the Magdalene."

In 1985 I read a book that seemed to me at the time to be utterly blasphemous, a book called "Holy Blood, Holy Grail" (Michael Baigent, Henry Lincoln, Richard Leigh) that suggested that Jesus and Mary Magdalene were married and that their bloodline survived in Western Europe. The word "sangraal" had, it seems, been misunderstood. When the word was broken after the "n" (san graal) it was thought to mean "Holy Grail," but if it was broken after the "g," the word rendered "sang raal," which in Old French meant "blood royal."

We are now faced with a legend that says that Mary Magdalene brought the "blood royal" to the coast of France in 42 A.D. One does not carry the blood royal in an alabaster ointment jar with a lid. The blood of kings is carried in the veins of a child. In the revised interpretation of the Medieval legend, the "vessel" that once contained the "sang raal" was not an artifact, but rather, a woman--Mary Magdalene herself--mother of a royal offspring of the Davidic bloodline.

All of the French legends seem to hint around about Mary Magdalene and the Holy Grail, but no legend comes out completely and admits it outright. Instead, we are led to figure it out on our own, since it was known that if anyone ever said that Jesus was married and had a child, then the Catholic Church would accuse them of heresy and they might even be killed.

In a book by Laurence Gardner, called “Bloodline of the Holy Grail: The Hidden Lineage of Jesus Revealed”, another story of Jesus life is revealed. Gardner references the “Pesher code” techniques that were found in some of the Dead Sea Scrolls, which tells of a different life of Jesus than the surface text tells. In the Pesher story of Jesus, he is married to Mary Magdalene, and they had three children. Their first child was a daughter named Tamar and she was born in Israel, and the other two children were born in France and their names were Joseph and Josephes. According to the Pesher code, every time the scriptures said that the word of God had increased in the book of Acts, then we are supposed to remember the code that is spoken of in John 1:14 about the word.

John 1:14 And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth.

John 1:1 In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.

Who was the “Word of God” that was made in the flesh? Jesus Christ was the Word. So therefore using the Pesher code we are suppose to interpret the “word of God increased” as Jesus had a child. According to the Pesher code, Jesus didn’t die on the cross, but managed to survive the crucifixion and then went on to have more children with his wife. In the book of Acts, every time the “Word of God” is written, it is meant to apply to Jesus. Therefore when the “word of God increased”, then we can literally take that to mean that the bloodline of Jesus Christ is increasing. The vine of Jesus is producing the new branches after the pruning, which will make the wine (Jesus bloodline) of the new covenant.

Acts 6:7 And the word of God increased; and the number of the disciples multiplied in Jerusalem greatly; and a great company of the priests were obedient to the faith.

Acts 12:24 But the word of God grew and multiplied.

The new bloodline of the Jews is then transferred into France and from there it spread into Europe and the Americas. The country of America is founded on the Jewish bloodline, and the Masons that founded this new country put the symbolism of the Jews everywhere. It can be found on the great seal of America and on our money. The Star of David is formed by the stars.

Anyone looking into the theory that America is a Jewish nation will certainly find plenty of proof in the symbolism of this country. Many scholars have traced the lost tribes to America and the Book of Mormon tells about some Jewish people coming to the Americas, but many scholars fell to mention that a new tribe of Jesus descendants could have spread into the Americas, as well. However, it is apparent that the early founders of America believed that the lost tribes were in the Americas, as well as Jesus descendants. They encoded many Jewish symbols into the seal without blatantly revealing this Jewish allegiance to the public.
According to Laurence Gardner, Mary Magdalene was attached to the regional Order of Dan. The Dan tribe is said to have moved into Europe, Britain and the Americas, and most scholars tend to agree with that assessment. There were some prophecies made in the Bible about the Tribe of Dan, by Jacob and Moses.

Genesis 49 (Jacob’s prophecy of Dan)

16 Dan shall judge his people, as one of the tribes of Israel.

17 Dan shall be a serpent by the way, an adder in the path, that biteth the horse heels, so that his rider shall fall backward.

18 I have waited for thy salvation, O LORD.

Deuteronomy 33:22 (Mose’s prophecy of Dan)

And of Dan he said, Dan is a lion’s whelp: he shall leap from Bashan.
Why is Moses giving the Dan tribe the same symbol as the tribe of Judah?

Genesis 49:9 Judah is a lion’s whelp: from the prey, my son, thou art gone up: he stooped down, he couched as a lion, and as an old lion; who shall rouse him up?

******************************************************************************

Symbols associated with the Tribe of Dan include a lion, snake, eagle, dragon, and griffin. A griffin is an imaginary creature with the wings and body of an eagle and the head of a lion.

http://www.britam.org/dan2.html

******************************************************************************

The name of Dan means to judge, to minister judgment or to plead a cause. It is most significant that this name is engraved in the Beryl stone which represents a subduing or a breaking.

Dan was to judge his own house as an equal, judge his tribe.
Dan was given the symbol of the serpent, which automatically everyone thinks that they must be evil; however Moses also gives them the same symbol as the lion of Judah. Why? There must be a reason for doing this, so God wants to show that Dan is somehow associated with the Tribe of Judah. Well if Jesus is from the tribe of Judah and Mary Magdalene is from the tribe of Dan, then that might be why Moses gives us this prophecy to represent the new tribe for the future.

One thing that I noticed immediately about the Hebrew letters for Dan is that it looks like the number 17 to me. The sigma of the number 17 is 153, which is the number given in the fish story of John 21, and is used to represent the net for the future harvest in the Book of Revelation. This could be a symbolic message to the Tribe of Dan.

Dan shall be a serpent by the way, an adder in the path, that biteth the horse heels, so that his rider shall fall backward. (Verse number 17)

In my “Cern and 2012” book, I tried to explain that the serpent in the Eden story and the serpent rope in the Mayan story of 2012 is symbolic of a wormhole. When the wormhole was used to leave Eden and come down to this lower dimension, than it was considered a serpent. However, when Jesus Christ ascended up through the wormhole, it was a brass serpent, and shining with the light.

Numbers 21

"And the LORD said unto Moses, Make thee a fiery serpent, and set it upon a pole: and it shall come to pass, that every one that is bitten, when he looketh upon it, shall live.

"And Moses made a serpent of brass, and put it upon a pole, and it came to pass, that if a serpent had bitten any man, when he beheld the serpent of brass, he lived.

John3

"And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of man be lifted up:

The word serpent makes us so afraid, that we automatically assume a serpent is evil; however Jesus compares himself to the serpent of brass on the pole. The word SERPENT is actually an anagram for the word REPENTS, and when Jesus Christ ascended and all people of Christ ascend, then we are like that serpent being lifted up.
The Tribe of Dan was so embarrassed by their animal icon that they changed their emblem to reflect their opposition to Satan, but they never realized that this symbol can be a good thing in the ascension or the harvest of God’s people.

Here is a website that talks about the change that the Tribe of Dan made to their emblem. Although Chuck Missler is opposed to the idea of Jesus and Mary having children, I can appreciate his point of view on the matter, but I would have to disagree. He does make some interesting statements that are worth reading.

***************************************************************************

This identification with a serpent was changed by Ahiezer, the leader of the Tribe of Dan during the Exodus, to an eagle with a serpent in its mouth as their tribal ensign. (The same symbol is on the seal of America.)

Dan’s descendants apparently became skilled sailors and migrated north and westward to seek their own futures. It is remarkable that Moses had previously anticipated this in his prophetic summary:

And of Dan he said, Dan is a lion’s whelp: he shall leap from Bashan.

The primary hero of this tribe is, of course, Samson. Although the subject of several colorful episodes, he actually accomplishes little of practical value. His riddle involving bees resulted in an additional identity idiom for his tribe.

When the tomb of one of the earliest Merovingian kings was unearthed, a treasure including 300 tiny gold bees was discovered. These bees are regarded as a symbol of the Tribe of Dan, linked with Samson's riddle.

(It is also interesting that the Mormon Church accepts the Magdalene heresy and that the state symbol of Utah is the bee.)

It disturbs some to note that the symbol of the United States is also, of course, the eagle. The apparent Masonic symbolism on the Great Seal of the United States also disturbs many.

Did you know that there appears to be a 151 ft. statue of Mary Magdalene, dressed in a Roman toga, holding the "Holy Grail" as a torch, in one of the most prominent international harbors today? Designed by Auguste Bartholdi, it was privately funded by the French Freemasons and presently adorns New York Harbor. (Wow! He says that the Statue of Liberty is Mary Magdalene.)

***************************************************************************
Is that Mary Magdalene holding up the light with her Menorah crown on her head and welcoming all the people that have fled to America because of religious persecution or for the liberty and freedom that is in America? It could be her. Remember this was a gift that was given to America from France, which is where Mary Magdalene went to live and where this new bloodline and RH negative blood type first started.

Inscribed upon the Sardius Stone was the name Judah which means Praise of Jehovah and denotes the expression of praise. The Sardius stone was red in color symbolizing blood & man. The tribe of Judah was the Regal and Ruling tribe of God. It was out of this tribe that the Lawgiver and Kings came. Blessings, joy, strength, and victory were always their portion.
Jesus came from the Tribe of Judah, which had the symbol of a lion and this was a tribe of kings. This is why the Merovingian Kings had the emblem of the lion with the serpent’s tail to represent their two tribes of Judah and Dan. Jacob’s prophecy for Judah includes a prophetic look at Jesus when it describes him as the choice vine and with his garments washed in wine. These are the very words that Jesus Christ used to describe himself, because he said that he was the vine and his blood is the wine.

Genesis 49

8Judah, thou art he whom thy brethren shall praise: thy hand shall be in the neck of thine enemies; thy father's children shall bow down before thee.

9Judah is a lion's whelp: from the prey, my son, thou art gone up: he stooped down, he couched as a lion, and as an old lion; who shall rouse him up?

10The sceptre shall not depart from Judah, nor a lawgiver from between his feet, until Shiloh come; and unto him shall the gathering of the people be.

11Binding his foal unto the vine, and his ass's colt unto the choice vine; he washed his garments in wine, and his clothes in the blood of grapes: (Prophetic of Jesus Christ.)

12His eyes shall be red with wine, and his teeth white with milk.

Another proof that Jesus and Mary Magdalene could have been married comes from the Gnostic text of the Nag Hammadi library, which several books are suggestive of Jesus and Mary having had a close relationship. The Gnostic scrolls were found in Egypt at Nag Hammadi in 1945, and they revealed a type of Christianity that is very different than today’s religion. This is suggestive of the fact that Christianity was way more diverse in the beginning of its foundation then most people ever realized, so these scrolls give us a rare glimpse into the complex belief systems that developed after Jesus had died. The famous psychic, Edgar Cayce, channeled information that told about the Gnostic Christian religion years before the Gnostic scrolls were even found and he even said that the Gnostics taught more in line with what Jesus had taught.

Here are some quotes from the Gnostic books.

The Gospel According to Mary Magdalene
Chapter 9

8) But if the Savior made her worthy, who are you indeed to reject her? Surely the Savior knows her very well.

9) That is why He loved her more than us. Rather let us be ashamed and put on the perfect Man, and separate as He commanded us and preach the gospel, not laying down any other rule or other law beyond what the Savior said.

http://www.gnosis.org/library/marygosp.htm

The Gospel of Philip

There were three who always walked with the Lord: Mary, his mother, and her sister, and Magdalene, the one who was called his companion. His sister and his mother and his companion were each a Mary.

As for the Wisdom who is called "the barren," she is the mother of the angels. And the companion of the [...] Mary Magdalene, [...] loved her more than all the disciples, and used to kiss her often on her mouth. The rest of the disciples [...]. They said to him "Why do you love her more than all of us?" The Savior answered and said to them,"Why do I not love you like her? When a blind man and one who sees are both together in darkness, they are no different from one another. When the light comes, then he who sees will see the light, and he who is blind will remain in darkness."

http://www.gnosis.org/naghamm/gop.html

All of these quotes certainly show the terminology that would be associated with a wife. The fact that Mary Magdalene was called his companion, rather than a follower or a friend, certainly is proof that their relationship was very close indeed. It almost seems like the Apostles were jealous of the close relationship he had with her, and on two occasions they state that he loved her more than them. This is also evident in the way that Jesus answers the question of why he loves her more, because she is in the light and can see what he is teaching, but apparently the Apostles are still blind. The fact that they are still blind is completely obvious by their question in the first place, because they did not realize that Jesus loved them all equally.

In all of the Gnostic text about Magdalene it becomes very obvious that she was the most beloved Apostle. In “The Gospel According to Mary Magdalene” the Apostles are asking her to tell them about Jesus teachings that were taught to her secretly, but had not been told to them.

5) Peter said to Mary, Sister we know that the Savior loved you more than the rest of woman.
6) Tell us the words of the Savior which you remember which you know, but we do not, nor have we heard them.

7) Mary answered and said, What is hidden from you I will proclaim to you.

Another Gnostic book called “The Pistis Sophia” shows Mary Magdalene to be the star pupil, as well. She asked more questions than the other apostles and seems to dominate the discussions or lessons with Jesus. It is evident when reading this book that Mary is the “teacher’s pet”, because her thirst for knowledge is displayed in the many questions she asked and the way she answers Jesus questions appropriately and with confidence that she has answered it right.

"...command of the First Mystery, I looked down again upon the world of mankind, I found Mary, forward and give their interpretation." Mary, the mother of Jesus, came forward. She But Jesus answered and said : "Thou also, Mary, thou hast received form which is in forward and give their interpretation." Mary, the mother of Jesus, came forward. She But Jesus answered and said : "Thou also, Mary, thou hast received form which is in Virgin of the Light according to the light, thou and the other Mary[Magdalene], the blessed one."

Mary always seemed to be way ahead of the other Apostles in everything that she did, and most of the time the Apostles didn’t understand what she was doing or didn’t believe what she was saying. Jesus would always set the record straight and show Mary Magdalene to be right in what she was doing or saying.

Mark 14

And being in Bethany in the house of Simon the leper, as he sat at meat, there came a woman having an alabaster box of ointment of spikenard very precious; and she brake the box, and poured it on his head.

And there were some that had indignation within themselves, and said, Why was this waste of the ointment made?

For it might have been sold for more than three hundred pence, and have been given to the poor. And they murmured against her.

And Jesus said, Let her alone; why trouble ye her? she hath wrought a good work on me.

For ye have the poor with you always, and whosoever ye will ye may do them good: but me ye have not always.

She hath done what she could: she is come beforehand to anoint my body to the burying.
Verily I say unto you, Wheresoever this gospel shall be preached throughout the whole world, this also that she hath done shall be spoken of for a memorial of her.

Who was the woman that anointed Jesus?

John 11

1 Now a certain man was sick, named Lazarus, of Bethany, the town of Mary and her sister Martha.

2 (It was that Mary which anointed the Lord with ointment, and wiped his feet with her hair, whose brother Lazarus was sick.)

John 12

3 Then took Mary a pound of ointment of spikenard, very costly, and anointed the feet of Jesus, and wiped his feet with her hair: and the house was filled with the odour of the ointment.

4 Then saith one of his disciples, Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, which should betray him, 5 Why was not this ointment sold for three hundred pence, and given to the poor?

6 This he said, not that he cared for the poor; but because he was a thief, and had the bag, and bare what was put therein.

7 Then said Jesus, Let her alone: against the day of my burying hath she kept this.

Mary Magdalene anointed Jesus, was there at his death and was the first to see him arise 3 days after his death. She seemed to be the only Apostle that understood that Jesus was going to die and anointed him, and the only Apostle that understood that he would rise 3 days after his death. The other Apostles didn’t seem to get the parable about the temple being destroyed and rebuilt in 3 days, so they were not expecting Jesus to die and resurrect himself in 3 days. Mary understood that parable and was anxiously awaiting his arrival at his tomb, but none of the other Apostles were anywhere to be found. Then to add to their ignorance in what is going on with Jesus, they refuse to believe Mary when she says that Jesus has risen and she saw him.

Mark 16

1 And when the sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome, had bought sweet spices, that they might come and anoint him.

2 And very early in the morning the first day of the week, they came unto the sepulchre at the rising of the sun.
And they said among themselves, Who shall roll us away the stone from the door of the sepulchre?

And when they looked, they saw that the stone was rolled away: for it was very great.

And entering into the sepulchre, they saw a young man sitting on the right side, clothed in a long white garment; and they were affrighted.

And he saith unto them, Be not affrighted: Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified: he is risen; he is not here: behold the place where they laid him.

But go your way, tell his disciples and Peter that he goeth before you into Galilee: there shall ye see him, as he said unto you.

And they went out quickly, and fled from the sepulchre; for they trembled and were amazed: neither said they any thing to any man; for they were afraid.

Now when Jesus was risen early the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, out of whom he had cast seven devils.

And she went and told them that had been with him, as they mourned and wept.

And they, when they had heard that he was alive, and had been seen of her, believed not.

After that he appeared in another form unto two of them, as they walked, and went into the country.

And they went and told it unto the residue: neither believed they them.

Afterward he appeared unto the eleven as they sat at meat, and upbraided them with their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they believed not them which had seen him after he was risen.

Mary was the only one that understood that the new temples were the body, and she set forth to get Christ to prepare her Menorah (seven candlesticks of light) for her temple, which is also known as the seven chakras or spiritual centers in the body. None of the other Apostles were preparing their bodies to be temples, but Mary Magdalene had her Menorah lit by the light of Christ.

Luke 8:2

And certain women, which had been healed of evil spirits and infirmities, Mary called Magdalene, out of whom went seven devils,

We have looked at the scriptures in the Gospels of the Bible and the Gnostic Gospels to try to prove that Jesus Christ and Mary Magdalene could have been married, as well as the French legends of Mary Magdalene and the Holy Grail. Now let’s look into the Jewish customs of Jesus time and see if there is any proof.

In Margaret Starbird’s book, “The Woman with the Alabaster Jar”, there is more proof of Jesus and Mary’s marriage. She tries to prove her theory by looking into the Jewish customs, and then by connecting that with scriptures in the Gospels. She points to the story of Jesus serving wine at a wedding as being proof that this wedding was his own, because the custom at that time was that the groom of a wedding always serves the wine to his guest.

Here is the story.

John 2

> And the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was there:
> And both Jesus was called, and his disciples, to the marriage.
> And when they wanted wine, the mother of Jesus saith unto him, They have no wine.
> Jesus saith unto her, Woman, what have I to do with thee? mine hour is not yet come.
> His mother saith unto the servants, Whatsoever he saith unto you, do it.
> And there were set there six waterpots of stone, after the manner of the purifying of the Jews, containing two or three firkins apiece.
> Jesus saith unto them, Fill the waterpots with water. And they filled them up to the brim.
> And he saith unto them, Draw out now, and bear unto the governor of the feast. And they bare it.
> When the ruler of the feast had tasted the water that was made wine, and knew not whence it was: (but the servants which drew the water knew;) the governor of the feast called the bridegroom,
> And saith unto him, Every man at the beginning doth set forth good wine; and when men have well drunk, then that which is worse: but thou hast kept the good wine until now.

Notice that the governor called out to the bridegroom, about the wine that he was serving at his wedding. Who made the wine and had the servants pour it for the governor? Jesus did. Who was the bridegroom? Jesus was. Of course, this wedding also is symbolic of the bride or the church becoming at one with Christ during the future marriage of the Lamb in the book of Revelations, but it also can be interpreted literally for Jesus life on this Earth.

Now if we interpret the story by the code that Jesus set forth at the last supper, then prophetically wine means that the new bloodline will now start since he is married. The bloodline of the Jews has now been modified with the good wine of Jesus Christ bloodline, which is the new fruit of the vine. This new bloodline continues the blood of the Jews in Mary, the mother of Jesus, mixed with the new DNA written from the Holy Spirit of our Father in Heaven. By now marrying Mary Magdalene and having children with her, the new vine (Christ) of the vineyard is growing new branches to make the grapes that will become the wine of Jesus Christ bloodline.

The diagram above shows what I envisioned from using the word vine to represent Christ and the word wine to represent his blood. I first noticed that Jesus words to describe himself and his blood rhymed, then I visualized in my head that the W and V could form the Star of David, which is also the symbol of the Merkabah or the light chariot. I immediately went to my paint program to try to represent this process of forming a Star of David; consequently the A and V in David also form this star.

Mary’s bloodline came from King David’s, and so Jesus also came from the Royal line of David. This is not told in the Gospels in the Bible, and because the Apostles did not want to include Mary’s line, they showed Joseph’s bloodline as coming from David. This seems somewhat redundant considering that they were very explicit in describing that Joseph was not the father of Jesus. However the Gospel of Matthew starts off with showing Joseph’s family genealogy, while at the same time specifically saying that Mary conceived as a virgin by the Holy Ghost and not by Joseph. Anyway, none of these writers even think about telling Mary’s line, because she is a woman; however it is her very same bloodline that Jesus has running through his veins. Mary’s line is affirmed to have sprung up from David in a rejected book of the Bible called “The Gospel of the Birth of Mary”.

Here is the verse.

1. The blessed and ever glorious Virgin Mary, descended from the royal race and family of David, was born in the city of Nazareth and educated at Jerusalem in the temple of the Lord.

Here are some verses from Matthew that list the generations of Jesus.

1. The book of the generation of Jesus Christ, the son of David, the son of Abraham.

The verses then go through the whole line down to Joseph.

2. “And Jacob begat Joseph the husband of Mary, of whom was born Jesus, who is called Christ.

3. “So all the generations from Abraham to David are fourteen generations; and from David until the carrying away into Babylon are fourteen generations; and from the carrying away into Babylon unto Christ are fourteen generations.

Despite having just given Joseph’s genealogy, Matthew goes on to explain that Jesus is not the son of Joseph. It doesn’t make sense.

4. “Now the birth of Jesus Christ was on this wise: When as his mother Mary was espoused to Joseph, before they came together, she was found with child of the Holy Ghost.

5. “But while he thought on these things, behold, the angel of the LORD appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Joseph, thou son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife: for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost.

6. “Behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us.

Now that we have established that there is a considerable amount of proof of the possibility of Jesus and Mary Magdalene marrying. Let’s go back to all the French stories and legends surrounding Mary Magdalene’s arrival in France with the Holy Grail. All of the various legends give the same core story of Mary arriving in France in 42AD. From there they all tend to vary to a certain degree, either differing in who was with her or differing as to who was bringing the Holy Grail. Some say Joseph of Arimathea and other stories say that it was Mary Magdalene, but I would suggest that perhaps both were right from a certain point of view. Joseph and Mary (not to be confused with Jesus parents) were either accompanying Sarah or Tamar to France. If the retranslations from the old French words of sangraal (Holy Grail) to sang raal (blood royal) are correct, then the grail that they were carrying to France was Sarah (Tamar), whom was Jesus daughter and carried the royal blood within her body. Mary Magdalene was also the grail when she was pregnant with Jesus children, because she was carrying the blood of Jesus within her. She then gave birth to two other sons in France, according to the Pesher codes, and this led to the fisher kings of the Arthurian legends and the Merovingian (vine of Mary) kings of France.

All of the grail legends used the symbolism of the cup carrying the blood of Jesus Christ, but again we must remember to use the code that Jesus taught us to decipher this hidden meaning. A cup is just a cup in everyday language, but in the gospels a cup is the body.

Matthew 26:39

And he went a little farther, and fell on his face, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me: nevertheless not as I will, but as thou wilt.

Luke 22:20

Likewise also the cup after supper, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood, which is shed for you.

It is clear that the cup that Jesus is talking about is his body, and that these verses are prophetic of the fact that Jesus cup of blood will be shed during the crucifixion. However, there is a double meaning to this which most people will never catch. If Jesus is the vine in the new vineyard God planted, and his wine is that blood, then his cup could be transferred to his children, and then his children would be carrying the cup of Jesus Christ blood. Of course, it goes without saying that the symbolic meaning of the cup is that they are carrying the Holy Spirit within them and are being instructed by God himself in their endeavors.

It also says that Jesus shed his blood for us, so let’s look up the definition of shed.

Main Entry: shed

Pronunciation: \shed\

Function: verb
Inflected Form(s): shed; shedding
Etymology: Middle English, to divide, separate, from Old English scēadan; akin to Old High German skeidan to separate, Latin scindere to split, cleave, Greek schizein to split
Date: before 12th century

transitive verb 1 chiefly dialect: to set apart: SEGREGATE
2: to cause to be dispersed without penetrating <duck's plumage sheds water>
3 a: to cause (blood) to flow by cutting or wounding b: to pour forth in drops <shed tears>
3 c: to give off or out <sheds some light on the subject>
4: to give off, discharge, or expel from the body of a plant or animal: as a: to eject, slough off, or lose as part of the normal processes of life    b: to discharge usually gradually especially as part of a pathological process <shed a virus in the feces>
5: to rid oneself of temporarily or permanently as superfluous or unwanted <shed her inhibitions> <the company shed 100 jobs> intransitive verb

1: to pour out: SPILL
2: to become dispersed: SCATTER
3: to cast off some natural covering (as fur or skin) <the cat is shedding>

The meaning of number 1 and the second 2 fits this verse, that the flock will be scattered abroad, as the new bloodline spreads beyond the Middle East.

Matthew 26:31 Then saith Jesus unto them, All ye shall be offended because of me this night: for it is written, I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock shall be scattered abroad.

The meaning of 3a & b and the second 1 also fits with Jesus shedding his blood during the crucifixion.

John 19:34
But one of the soldiers with a spear pierced his side, and forthwith came there out blood and water.

The meaning of number 4 and the second 3 also fits with the crucifixion, because Jesus shed his skin from his soul and ascended. Much in the way a caterpillar sheds its body in the cocoon and then breaks free from it and flies away as a beautiful butterfly.

Well, I’m glad that I could shed some light on that subject.

In order for someone to pass on their bloodline, they must have children, and that bloodline is shed onto them. Half of our genes come from our mother and half comes from our father, and our blood type is determined by the mix of both of their genes.

What would we expect to see in southern France to support this theory? A new blood type, of course. Since Jesus got half his genes from a terrestrial source and half from an extraterrestrial source, then we would expect some kind of change or mutation to the bloodline of the Jews. Where is the evidence? We find it exactly where we would expect for it to be, which is in southern France, because it is with the Basque people that we find a mutation has taken place.

The RH negative blood type started in the Basque regions of southern France and northern Spain, which is the exact area that Mary Magdalene had moved in the year 42AD. Since that time, the RH negative blood has spread from France and Spain to all throughout Europe, into northern Africa and into the Americas. Jesus prophecy of the flock being scattered abroad has already occurred and still continues to the very last day. Are Jesus descendants marked by this special blood? This is definitely a possibility.

There are a few more examples that I wanted to share of encoded information that has been passed down from one generation to the next, and right in front of the Catholic Churches eyes. This information was transmitted through cute little stories and interesting pictures that are designed to transmit one story on the surface and another more allusive story underneath. In other words, the followers of Christ learned to transmit information the way that Jesus Christ did in his time, and that was to use a parable or to display pictures that look one way to one group and another way to others.

There are some mysterious stories going around about Mary Magdalene and an egg. Here are the stories, but remember to think symbolically about what is being encoded in these stories.

For centuries, it has been the custom of many Christians to share dyed and painted eggs, particularly on Easter Sunday. The eggs represent new life, and Christ bursting forth from the tomb. Among Eastern Orthodox Christians (including Bulgarian, Greek, Macedonian, Russian, Romanian, Serbian and Ukrainian) this sharing is accompanied by the proclamation "Christ is risen!" (in Greek "Christos anesti") and the response "Truly He is risen!" (in Greek - "Alithos anesti").

One tradition concerning Mary Magdalene says that following the death and resurrection of Jesus, she used her position to gain an invitation to a banquet given by Emperor Tiberius. When she met him, she held a plain egg in her hand and exclaimed "Christ is risen!" Caesar laughed, and said that Christ rising from the dead was as likely as the egg in her hand turning red while she held it. Before he finished speaking, the egg in her hand turned a bright red, and she continued proclaiming the Gospel to the entire imperial house. [33]

Another version of this story can be found in popular belief, mostly in Greece. It is believed that after the Crucifixion, Mary Magdalene and the Virgin Mary put a basket full of eggs at the foot of the cross. There, the eggs were painted red by the blood of the Christ. Then, Mary Magdalene brought them to Tiberius Caesar

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Mary_Magdalene

I don’t know what you got from those stories, but here is what I figured out. The egg symbolizes a new birth, whether it is a chicken egg or an egg within a woman. In the first story the egg turns red, which we know could symbolize the blood of Christ. The second story is an even better allegory than the first one because it made me think about the Holy Grail, since the eggs are being painted red by the blood of Christ at the cross. The fact that Mary Magdalene and the Virgin Mary are putting the basket of eggs at the cross symbolizes that these two women are the first two mothers to carry the egg of the new bloodline of Christ. Mary gave birth to Jesus and Magdalene gave birth to the children of Jesus, and so the eggs are transmitting the blood of Christ.

My son and I sometimes dyed eggs on Easter when he was a child, which is a Christian tradition, but now this new symbolic meaning gives this tradition a whole new meaning. Jesus died for us and then he dyed our eggs in the womb with his red Royal blood. He died and then he dyed for us.

Well, the next painting’s meaning has already been popularized by the “The Da Vinci Code” book and movie. This theory surmises that Leonardo Da Vinci was trying to encode another story beneath the story of his paintings. The Last Supper painting shows what looks like a woman sitting beside Jesus at the table, instead of John, and Peter is making a threatening gesture towards Mary. Take a look and see what you think, if you haven’t already heard about this interpretation yet, then you might be surprised by what your eyes will see.

This painting is located in Italy at the Santa Maria delle Grazie church. (St. Mary of Grace) Is that Mary or John sitting beside Jesus? Who knows for sure other than Leonardo Da Vinci, but I definitely accept the possibility that this is Mary. Da Vinci certainly gives us many hints to ponder about, because this church is named after St. Mary. Also he decides to put a blue dress on Mary and a red dress on Jesus, while putting a pink (Could be red that has faded.) cloak on Mary with a blue cloak on Jesus. Is Jesus red bloodline, which is the “blue blood” being given over to Mary with the blue dress?

Jesus is wearing red and blue, which makes the color purple and so is Mary. We are automatically drawn to them in the picture. Both of their cloaks are on the same side of their body, and their bodies are in a position to form the feminine V symbol. This ancient symbol portrays the vessel or womb that carries the bloodline for a new generation.

As you may remember the Apostle John is always referred to as the most beloved apostle, so is this why Mary is labeled as John. I wonder if Leonardo Da Vinci ever read any Gnostic gospels, because there were some hidden copies that have since been found in various libraries. If he did, then he would have known that the Apostles said that Jesus loved Mary more than them.

Ok, here is the clincher, the Apostle labeled as Peter seems to be threatening Mary with a jester that he would like to cut off her head. Every Gnostic Christian knows that Peter didn’t like Mary at all, and the Gnostic’s back there thought that Mary Magdalene should run the church instead of Peter.

The Gospel According to Mary  Chapter 9  (Peter attacking Mary)

Peter answered and spoke concerning these same things. 4) He questioned them about the Savior: Did He really speak privately with a woman and not openly to us? Are we to turn about and all listen to her? Did He prefer her to us? 5) Then Mary wept and said to Peter, My brother Peter, what do you think? Do you think that I have thought this up myself in my heart, or that I am lying about the Savior?  6) Levi answered and said to Peter, Peter you have always been hot tempered.  7) Now I see you contending against the woman like the adversaries.  8) But if the Savior made her worthy, who are you indeed to reject her? Surely the Savior knows her very well.

Another Apostle has one finger held up beside Jesus. Could this be symbolizing that they are married as one?

Another interesting clue in the DaVinncki painting was solved by Slavisa Pesciv. Here is a paragraph about his discovery.

Slavisa Pesci, "an information technologist and amateur scholar", superimposed Leonardo da Vinci's version of The Last Supper with its mirror image (with both images of Jesus lined up) and claimed[8] that the resultant picture has a Templar knight on the far left, a woman in orange holding a swaddled baby in her arms to the left of Christ, and the Holy Grail in the form of a chalice in front of Christ.
Another intriguing clue of Jesus and Mary’s bloodline comes from the watermarks that were used on paper in Provence of France and from the symbols of the Merovingian kings of France. There are symbols of unicorns, grapevines, grapes & grails, lion with fleur-de- lis or serpent tails, horn of the spirit and many more symbols. Here are some of the symbols.
The grapes in the grail are like the wine from the vine.

Matthew 26
27And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying, Drink ye all of it;
28For this is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many for the remission of sins.
29But I say unto you, I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine, until that day when I drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom.

John 15:5 I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me ye can do nothing.
Matthew 9: 17 Neither do men put new wine into old bottles: else the bottles break, and the wine runneth out, and the bottles perish: but they put new wine into new bottles, and both are preserved. (17X9=153)

Did God put the new wine into new bodies? It is possible that a new bloodline with different genetics could be like an upgrade for the body.

The unicorn is a medieval symbol of Jesus Christ.

Now the last thing that I will leave you to ponder over is the riddle that Sampson left for the Tribe of Dan. You can read this from a literal interpretation, a symbolic interpretation, a spiritual interpretation or a prophetic interpretation.

Judges 14
Then went Samson down, and his father and his mother, to Timnath, and came to the vineyards of Timnath: and, behold, a young lion roared against him.

And the Spirit of the LORD came mightily upon him, and he rent him as he would have rent a kid, and he had nothing in his hand: but he told not his father or his mother what he had done.

And he went down, and talked with the woman; and she pleased Samson well.

And after a time he returned to take her, and he turned aside to see the carcase of the lion: and, behold, there was a swarm of bees and honey in the carcase of the lion. (Mary Magdalene is the queen bee from the Tribe of Dan and Jesus Christ is the lion from the Tribe of Judah. After the lion (Jesus) has died, the honey of a swarm of bees (descendants) comes from the lion.)

And he took thereof in his hands, and went on eating, and came to his father and mother, and he gave them, and they did eat: but he told not them that he had taken the honey out of the carcase of the lion.

So his father went down unto the woman: and Samson made there a feast; for so used the young men to do.

And it came to pass, when they saw him, that they brought thirty companions to be with him.

And Samson said unto them, I will now put forth a riddle unto you: if ye can certainly declare it me within the seven days of the feast, and find it out, then I will give you thirty sheets and thirty change of garments:

But if ye cannot declare it me, then shall ye give me thirty sheets and thirty change of garments. And they said unto him, Put forth thy riddle, that we may hear it.

And he said unto them, Out of the eater came forth meat, and out of the strong came forth sweetness. And they could not in three days expound the riddle.

And it came to pass on the seventh day, that they said unto Samson's wife, Entice thy husband, that he may declare unto us the riddle, lest we burn thee and thy father's house with fire: have ye called us to take that we have? is it not so?

And Samson's wife wept before him, and said, Thou dost but hate me, and lovest me not: thou hast put forth a riddle unto the children of my people, and hast not told it me. And he said unto her, Behold, I have not told it my father nor my mother, and shall I tell it thee?
“And she wept before him the seven days, while their feast lasted: and it came to pass on the seventh day, that he told her, because she lay sore upon him: and she told the riddle to the children of her people. (Esther wept in front of the King, Sampson’s wife wept in front of her King, and Mary wept in front of the King of the Jews.)

“And the men of the city said unto him on the seventh day before the sun went down, What is sweeter than honey? And what is stronger than a lion? and he said unto them, If ye had not plowed with my heifer, ye had not found out my riddle. (To merge a Tribe of two strengths [literal] or the Holy Spirit coming together with the light of Christ [symbolic or spiritual meaning].)

“And the Spirit of the LORD came upon him, and he went down to Ashkelon, and slew thirty men of them, and took their spoil, and gave change of garments unto them which expounded the riddle. And his anger was kindled, and he went up to his father's house. (The changing of garments denotes that there has been a change to the bodies.)

The answer to the riddle poses two questions, so therefore the answer is not really an answer until the questions have been resolved. Well, the lion and the honey were together, so if you combine the sweetness with the strength, then the honey would be sweeter and the lion stronger. The answer is that if you combine the sweetest wine with the strongest wine, then you will get the new wine of the new covenant. The Merovingian Kings had the symbol of the bees, which means they understood the prophetic message that their ancestor Sampson (Tribe of Dan) had foretold in his riddle. They were the bees that had come from the Queen Bee (MM) and they had come out of the Lion King (JC). Jesus had died, but out of him came a new bloodline, and this one was sweeter and stronger than the one before. Jesus Christ served the good wine last, as he did at the wedding of Cana, and this was done to prepare the people for the marriage of the Lamb or the harvest.

Leviticus 20:24
But I have said unto you, Ye shall inherit their land, and I will give it unto you to possess it, a land that floweth with milk and honey: I am the LORD your God, which have separated you from other people.

The white light of the Holy Spirit and Christ is worn as the white robe, while we are drinking in his sacred milk, so that we will never be thirsty again.

God’s Word buzzes through our ears like the sound of bees swarming, while making the sweetness of the honey, so that our souls may never be hungry again.

For those that have taken the bread and wine of the priest of the Order of Melchizedek, there is an added meaning to the symbolism of the bees. When I took the manna (monatomic elements) a few years ago, I discovered after a month that I heard a persistent buzzing like bees or a wind like sound. The manna is both described as white, which is the color of milk and it is said that it is as sweet as honey.

Exodus 16:31
And the house of Israel called the name thereof Manna: and it was like coriander seed, white; and the taste of it was like wafers made with honey.

The additional meaning to the riddle is to be found with Sampson’s statement about plowing with his heifer. A heifer is a cow, and milk comes from a cow, so basically Sampson is also talking about the land of milk and honey (Israel, The Promised Land) and the manna or bread from Heaven that represents Christ body.

“And the men of the city said unto him on the seventh day before the sun went down, What is sweeter than honey? And what is stronger than a lion? and he said unto them, If ye had not plowed with my heifer, ye had not found out my riddle.

Here is another interesting prophetic interpretation.

Samsons Riddle:
The Revelation of Jesus Christ
by Bill Somers

The Riddle speaks of the Word of God.
The lion is Jesus

   And one of the elders saith unto me, Weep not: behold, the Lion of the tribe of Juda, the Root of David, hath prevailed to open the book, and to loose the seven seals thereof.
   Rev. 5.5

The lion died; he died for us. ("I am he that liveth and was dead ...." Rev 1:18)
Inside the carcase of the Lion was found the honey.
The honey, the sweetness is the word of God.

Samson is a Type of the Lord Jesus Christ
Just as Samson was dedicated to the Lord from birth, as a nazirite, Jesus was dedicated and separated to be the head of the church.
Samson is also a type of the resurrected Christ. Nothing could bind Him. Nothing could hold Him, not even death, hell and the grave.

His Wife is a Type of the Church

   Then went Samson down, and his father and his mother, to Timnath, and came to the vineyards of Timnath .... Judges 14:5

There are three clues in this verse. 1. Samson went down; this speaks of Jesus coming down from Heaven. 2. Timnath means portion. This says Jesus came down to get His portion or inheritance. [The World] 3. He came to the vineyards of Timnath; vineyards speak of the Church.
The Church is His Harlot Bride. Samson kept going after a harlotous, Gentile bride. JESUS has done the same. Jesus’ bride, the Church in many ways has been just as harlotous as Israel ever was and yet Jesus will purify her for she pleaseth him.

And Samson said unto his father, Get her for me; for she pleaseth me well. Judges 14:3

Revealing the Answer on the Seventh Day is a type of End Time Revival

The seventh day speaks of the Millenium or the end times which we are now in.

Revealing the Answer is the Revelation of Jesus Christ

And one of the elders saith unto me, Weep not: behold, the Lion of the tribe of Juda, the Root of David, hath prevailed to open the book, and to loose the seven seals thereof. Rev. 5:5

Revealing the answer to the riddle is the same as opening the Book.

In the Book of revelation we see Jesus the Lion of the Tribe of Judah, opening the Book. In Judges 14:17 we see Samson revealing the answer to his wife. This speaks of nothing less than God Revealing Himself, because Jesus is the Word of God. And only God can reveal Himself. No man was found worthy to open the book. Man cannot comprehend God by his own efforts. God reveals Himself to man at the time of His choosing.

Notice also that the answer was not revealed to the wife until she wept before Him and pleaded for the answer. Doesn't this speak of deep repentance that we know must come to the Church?

The Lesson

So we see that Samson revealing the answer to the riddle to his wife is that same as Jesus revealing Himself to the Church! Notice what happens next!

… and she told the riddle to the children of her people. Judges 14:17

As soon as she knew the answer, she turned around and told the other Philistines. Isn't this what the Church is required to do? To reveal Jesus to a lost and dying world, marked for judgment? So we see that when and only when we receive the Revelation of Jesus Christ will we really be able to impart that to the lost.

The Merovingian Kings had the symbol of the bees to show that they were from the line of Dan and Judah, but there are other reasons to display a beehive or bees. In displaying the bee, they were proclaiming their Jewish heritage in a Catholic society, and continuing the religion of Jesus.
Finally, our last association with Rennes-Le-Château and the Bee is even more obtuse than the others, for it involves the Holy Grail, an object of desire long-associated with the South of France. The well-worn legend of Rennes-Le-Château purports that Saunière discovered a heretical secret and/or treasure of considerable importance while renovating his church. As previously noted, he may have been told where to look by a Habsburg; a dynasty linked with Bees. With his new found riches – apparently as a result of his ‘discovery’ - the priest renovated his village and church in a manner that seems gaudy and sensational to our 21st century eyes. The renovations included the encoding of the number 11 - as in the number of Bees found on Plantard’s family crest, and the number...
22 – the feast day of Mary Magdalene, and an important number in the Cabala. As part of his renovation, the priest repositioned the statues of Saints in his church in such a way that when connected in an unbroken line, or ‘M’ shape, the first letter of each saint’s name spells GRAAL – or Grail in French, i.e. St Germaine, St Roch, St Antoine de Padoue, St Antoine, St Luc.

The Priest Saunière discovered something unusual at Rennes-Le-Château in the Church of Mary Magdalene, while he was renovating the church, and then went to the Vatican in Rome to confront them with what he had found. He came back to his church as a rich man, and then continued decorating the church with all kinds of clues as to what he had found. The “M” encoded within his church with the letters of GRAAL are proof that he could have found out about Mary and Jesus being married. The fact that he was paid off by the Catholic Church suggest that he found out something that was damaging to the Catholic Church.

The Book of Revelation is also suggestive that the Catholic religion is a false religion, and is not following God or Jesus teachings. This is evident by the killing they did in the Crusade wars and the Inquisition, and the fact that they have suppressed the truth in science and in history. They are one of the richest religions in the world, and they are not following Jesus teachings or example at all.

Jesus, the founder of Christianity, was the poorest of the poor. Roman Catholicism, which claims to be His church, is the richest of the rich, the wealthiest institution on earth.

Revelation 17

1 With whom the kings of the earth have committed fornication, and the inhabitants of the earth have been made drunk with the wine of her fornication. (All of the world’s leaders meet with the Pope.)

2 So he carried me away in the spirit into the wilderness: and I saw a woman sit upon a scarlet coloured beast, full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns.

3 And the woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet colour, and decked with gold and precious stones and pearls, having a golden cup in her hand full of abominations and filthiness of her fornication:

4 And upon her forehead was a name written, MYSTERY, BABYLON THE GREAT, THE MOTHER OF HARLOTS AND ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH.

5 And I saw the woman drunken with the blood of the saints, and with the blood of the martyrs of Jesus: and when I saw her, I wondered with great admiration.

9 And here is the mind which hath wisdom. The seven heads are seven mountains, on which the woman sitteth. (Rome is surrounded by seven hills.)

The historic centre of Rome was built on seven hills: the Aventine Hill, the Caelian Hill, the Capitoline Hill, the Esquiline Hill, the Palatine Hill, the Quirinal Hill, and the Viminal Hill.

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Rome

The Catholic Church has consistently put down women to a lower level then men, and will not allow women to be Priest in their church. The Gnostic Christian religion had men and women preaching the Word of God, but unfortunately the Catholic Church killed most Gnostics during the Crusade wars and destroyed their scrolls. Jesus always included women in his ministry.
The honey bees system is based on a matriarchy form of society, and lions follow a matriarchy system, as well. Therefore Sampson’s riddle could also be pointing to the lost feminine within society. Jesus included women in his ministry, although women were forbidden in the spiritual matters of the synagogue, so Jesus seemed to be bringing back the lost feminine part of society. Of course, the riddle of Sampson could also refer to Mary Magdalene’s line of descendants, which come out of the Tribe of Judah or the lion of Judah.

Encyclopedia > Matriarchy

Matriarchy is a term, which is applied to gynocentric form of society, in which the leading role is by the female and especially by the mothers of a community. Some authors consider it as a hypothetical form of human society. There exist many matriarchal animal societies including bees, lions, elephants, and killer whales.

The Last Jewish line came from Abraham and so it was patriarchal, but the new upgraded Jewish line comes from the Virgin Mary and it is matriarchal. Abraham was the father of the Jews and now Mary is the mother of the Jews, so everything basically balances out with the masculine and the feminine.

We have explored the writings in the Bible and the Gnostic books, and also the various legends that were told in France; however we have not explored the science of genetics for proof. If the Basque people are descendants of Jesus and Mary, then there should be some kind of proof that links them to the Jews of the Middle East. Modern genetics is now able to trace the genetic lines of our ancestors, and our DNA or “Book of Life” has some interesting stories to tell. Basically, we can trace the source of various genetic haplotypes by following the trail of the expansion away from the point of its origin.

The Basque people and the Celtic people are related by their Y chromosome and their distinct RH negative blood type. The Basque and Celtics have the same genetics of haplogroup R1b, which is shown to have originated out of Western Asia or Central Asia.

The modern Celtic Irish are 95% R1b and the modern Basque are 92% R1b, and we can see that the genetics of this haplotype originates somewhere around the Middle East. From there it looks like from the map that R1b people moved into Europe on one side and into Central Asia on the other side of the Middle East area. The Middle East is the area where the Jews have lived, so we can see a definite connection to the Jews. The genetic studies are supportive that the Basque people could have originally come from the Middle East area, so this does not go against the theory that the Basque are a Jewish people. This data can indeed support the theory that there were Jews that had settled in the Southern France area.

Genetically, in terms of Y-chromosomes and Mt-DNA, inhabitants of Britain and Ireland are closely related to the Basques, reflecting their common origin in this refugial area. Basques, along with Irish, show the highest frequency of the Y-chromosome DNA haplogroup R1b in Western Europe; some 90% to 95% of males residing in the Basque Country have this haplogroup. The rest is mainly I and a minimal presence of E3b.

Here are some maps showing the distribution of haplogroup R in Europe and the Middle East.
Haplogroup R1b in Europe

The next map shows the distribution of subclades of haplogroup R in Europe.
The next map shows the subclades of haplogroup R in Western Asia or the Middle East.

These maps show a correlation between the Basque people and the Middle Eastern people, since the people in these areas have haplogroup R and you can see through the genetic trail of our ancestors that the track of some of the Jews went up north through Turkey and from there into Europe.

The Basque’s specific haplogroup R type of R1b1 is the orange line and the yellow line. The orange line goes right through the Israel region. Some of these ancient people went into Northern Africa and some went into Europe. These areas are bordering along the Mediterranean Sea, so it is also possible that some of these people went through the Mediterranean Sea and into Eastern Europe. The French story about Mary Magdalene going into the Provence area of France says that she came from the sea in a boat with no oars. This genetic migration map confirms the fact that people from the Middle East did move into Europe, as well as Asia and Africa. We would expect this to happen, even without the genetic studies, considering the fact that the Middle East is a crossroads area for Europe, Africa and Asia.

Is there a connection to the Israelites?
The Israelites belong to the J1 haplogroup according to geneticist.

Haplogroup J is found in greatest concentration in Southwest Asia. Outside of this region, haplogroup J has a moderate presence in Southern Europe (especially in central and southern Italy, Malta, Greece, and Albania), Central Asia, and South Asia, particularly in the form of its subclade J2 (J-M172). Haplogroup J is also found in North Africa and the Horn of Africa, particularly in the form of its subclade J1 (J-M267). Subclades J2a and J2a1b1 are found mostly in Greece, Anatolia, and southern Italy.
Haplogroup J2 is found mainly in the Fertile Crescent, the Caucasus, Anatolia, the Balkans, Italy, the Mediterranean littoral, the Iranian plateau, and Central Asia. More specifically it is found in Iraq, Syria, Lebanon, Turkey, Israel, Palestine, Greece, Italy and the eastern coasts of the Iberian Peninsula, and more frequently in Iraqis 29.7% (Sanchez et al. 2005), Lebanese 25% (Semino et al 2004), Palestinians 16.8% (Semino et al 2004), Syrians 22.5% (Luis et al. 2004), Sephardic Jews 29%, Kurds 28.4%, Jordan 14.3%, Oman 15% (Di Giacomo et al. 2004) & 10% (Luis et al. 2004), UAE 10.4%, Yemen 9.7%, in Israel, in Palestine, and in Turkey.

According to a genetic study of the ancient Basque people, the geneticist found some of the ancient Basque to have haplogroup J, so this evidence shows a connection with the Israelites in the past. So now the Basque and Celtic people have a connection to the Middle East with haplogroup R1b1 and to the Israelites with the ancient Basque that had haplogroup J.

Mitochondrial DNA haplogroup diversity in Basques: A reassessment based on HVI and HVII polymorphisms

The most notable findings emerging from the analysis of haplogroup composition are: (i) lack of U8a mitochondrial lineage, a rare subhaplogroup recently identified in Basques and proposed as a Paleolithic marker, (ii) low frequency of haplogroup V, which conflicts with results of earlier analyses describing high frequencies in southwestern Europe, and (iii) high frequency of haplogroup J, especially subhaplogroups J1c1 and J2a. The frequency of haplogroup J does not coincide with previous mtDNA studies in present-
Today only 2.4% of modern Basques are haplogroup J, but in the past it was around 16% of the people that were of the haplogroup J type. There is enough genetic evidence to prove that there is a connection to the Middle East area and to Israel, but due to some mixing with the Europeans the haplogroup J has diminished over time.

In addition, haplogroup K (mtDNA), found at frequencies of 16%-23% in the prehistoric sites, is nearly absent from modern Basques, while haplogroup J (mtDNA) (thought to have arrived in Europe with Neolithic farmers), found in two prehistoric sites at a frequency of 16% and the early medieval necropolis at Aldaieta at 14.7%, has suffered a major reduction to 2.4% in modern Basques.

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Basque_people

Another interesting thing that I found when I was researching the Basque genetics, sort of took me by surprise, and it was mainly due to the number that named this genetic marker of the Basque people. I have come to realize in all of my research that there is no such thing as a coincidence when it relates to God or Jesus Christ. There is a rare subclade to R1b1 that is found mostly in the Basque and the Gascons. Its name is R-M153.

Why would geneticist name it that particular number? I have written much about that number in my book “CERN and 2012”, so it was quite surprising to see that this number is a marker for the Basque. I wonder if this could be God’s way of giving a hint to the descendants of Jesus and Mary. Perhaps there is another interpretation of the John 21 fish story that I had previously overlooked. I have always linked the 153 fish that the apostles pulled out of the water to the net of the harvest, but now I can see a connection between the descendants of Jesus and that net. Perhaps this new bloodline will have a purpose in helping with the harvest, or maybe this is a way to mark the members of the Tribe of Dan that have mixed with this new bloodline through the Tribe of Judah.

The Hebrew letters for the Tribe of Dan forms the number 17, and the sigma for 17 is 153.

\[1+2+3+4+5+6+7+8+9+10+11+12+13+14+15+16+17 = 153\]

The genetic marker for the Basque people is R-M153, so either God spiritually inspired the geneticist to name it by that number or the geneticist that named this subclade may be aware of the possibility that the Basque people came from Jesus and Mary.

The M could possibly represent Mary Magdalene and the number 153 is for the fish in the net of John 21, which might be prophetic of Jesus and Mary’s descendants. The fish symbol has always been used to represent Jesus Christ.

John 21:11
Simon Peter went up, and drew the net to land full of great fishes, an hundred and fifty and three: and for all there were so many, yet was not the net broken.

If this is a coincidence, then it is an astounding one. Just the fact that the Hebrew letters of Dan forms a 17 and the possible genetic marker for the Tribe of Dan and Judah is M153 is really amazing.

This subclade is defined by the presence of the marker R-M153. It has been found mostly in Basques and Gascons, among whom it represents a sizeable fraction of the Y-DNA pool[^26][^27][^28], though is also found occasionally among Iberians in general. The first time it was located (Bosch 2001[^29]) it was described as H102 and included 7 Basques and one Andalusian.

The R1b1b2a2c (M153) is the soft colored yellow in the Basque region.
This map definitely shows a geographical relationship between the Basque people and Mary Magdalene, and we can see that the descendants of Jesus and Mary would have lived around the same area. Perhaps Rennes-le-Chateau serves as a marker to show the direction that the descendants moved into in the past. The Basque people tended to stay together as a group, as the Jews did, and so they managed to keep a high percentage of RH negative blood types within their society.

Well the theory that the RH negative people come from a new bloodline of Jesus Christ and Mary Magdalene certainly has a lot of proof to back it up. I must admit that this is an intriguing theory and my favorite explanation of why we have this unique blood type. Even though this theory is a definite possibility, I must admit that I am not 100% convinced; however wherever there is smoke there is fire. Something uniquely different occurred in France and Spain with this interesting blood type, and the Magdalene story fits so perfectly with this mutation that it puts me in awe. Is it a mere coincidence? Only God knows what really happened, but this theory certainly has my attention.

The next chapter will address the theory of whether we could be descendants of Atlantis.

Jesus & Mary

Kilmore Church on the Isle of Mull, Scotland

Descendants of Atlantis

There are many websites that suggest that the RH negative people come from the lost continent of Atlantis, so let's explore this theory. There have been numerous books that say that the people of Atlantis went to live in the Pyrenees Mountains of France and Spain, the northern Africa area of Morocco and Egypt, and to the Americas. Could this be where we get the blood type of RH negative? Well, let’s explore where these theories came from and see where the modern day science of genetics leads us, and then try to tackle this very difficult question. It seems that the theory that RH negatives come from Atlantis is a hypothetical reasoning based upon one of Edgar Cayce’s readings.

READING: 990-1

Entity was in that known as the Atlantean land, in those periods when there were the comings of those from Atlantis to first the Pyrenees and then portions into Egypt; when there was the distributing of those tenets that had been correlated by the entity's peoples and the Priest, with those in the Mongolian, the Indian, the Carpathian experience.

Edgar Cayce said that the Atlanteans first settled in the Pyrenees Mountains of France and Spain, which is the same area where the Basque live. It is not hard to see where people will make the leap, in their understanding, to want to connect the RH negative people to the Atlanteans. First though, we should study about all the areas that are said to be occupied by the descendants of the Atlanteans, and then see if there is an RH negative connection. Rather than jump to conclusions of our own, we should see where the scientific evidence leads us and then connect the dots. If all of the dots of RH negative hot spots lead us to the origins of a common continent in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean, then we can fully conclude that this blood type comes from a lost land.

- 3528-1 21. Before that the entity was in the land of the present sojourn, during the early activities of a peoples that had been banished from Atlantis.
- 22. The entity was among those of the second generation of Atlanteans who struggled northward from Yucatan, settling in what is now a portion of Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio; being among those of the earlier period known as Mound Builders.

http://all-ez.com/mounds.htm
Other Atlanteans settled on the opposite side of the Atlantic Ocean in the Americas, so therefore he is saying that some of the Indians of North America are descendants of Atlantis. These people are known for making the Indian mounds that are found all throughout the Eastern parts of America.

364-13 6. (Q) Are the places designated for the beginning of the five races correct? (A) As we find, these are changed, in that: Those in the Gobi, the yellow. The white - rather in the Carpathians than India, though this is the change to which they are made. The red, of course, in the Atlantean and in the American. The brown in the Andean. The black in the plain and the Sudan, or in African.

7. (Q) Where was the Carpathian region? (A) Aarat.
8. (Q) Where is the location? Is it on the map today? (A) Southern part of Europe and Russia, and Persia and that land. Caucasian mountains.

If the Atlanteans are from the red race and they settled in the area that the Basque people live within, then this would mean that the ancestors of the Basque of France and Spain and the Irish Celtic people descended from the Atlanteans. However, these people also mixed with the white race of Europe, so therefore the descendants of Atlantis on the European side would be a mix of the red and white races. It seems quite interesting considering that America’s colors of our flag are white, red and blue. The “blue bloods”, of course, are designating our RH negative blood type.

Even though Edgar Cayce has said in his readings that the Basque people came from Atlantis, we need to look into the genetic evidence for our proof. The Geneticist has indeed found a commonality in the areas where Edgar Cayce said that the Atlanteans went to live after their island went into the ocean. The haplogroup X is the human mitochondrial DNA or mtDNA haplogroup. The mtDNA traces the maternal DNA connections that are inherited, but does not trace the paternal side. Some theories have suggested that the haplogroup X that is found only in certain localities around the world has its origins in the lost continent of Atlantis. It is interesting to note that haplogroup X does occur in exactly the same areas where Edgar Cayce said that the people of Atlantis had settled, and so the commonality of this specific DNA type connects these people together.

This could suggest that the origin of the Haplogroup X started in the fabled land of Atlantis. Edgar Cayce channeled this information in the 1930’s, which was way before this genetic testing had been done. This genetic evidence is remarkable in that it actually confirms what Cayce was saying in his trance. How was Cayce able to retrieve this vast amount of information?

An Unknown and Unexpected Migration Group Confirmed

In 1997, a fifth mtDNA haplogroup was identified in Native Americans.

This group, called "X," is present in three percent of living Native Americans. Haplogroup X was not then found in Asia, but was found only in Europe and the Middle East where two to four percent of the population carry it. In those areas, the X haplogroup has primarily been found in parts of Spain, Bulgaria, Finland, Italy, and Israel.

In July 2001, a research letter was published in the American Journal of Human Genetics, relating that a few people with the "X" type had been identified in a tribe.
located in extreme southern Siberia. These people, called the Altasians, or Altaics as Russian geneticists refer to them, have always lived in the Gobi Desert area.

Archaeologists and geneticists are certain that the presence of "X" in America is not the result of historic intermarriages. It is of ancient origin. In addition, the "X" type has now been found in the ancient remains of the Basque.

Among Native American tribes, the X haplogroup has been found in small numbers in the Yakima, Sioux, and Navaho tribes. It has been found to a larger degree in the Ojibway, Oneota, and Nuu-Chah-Nulth tribes. The X haplogroup has also been discovered in ancient remains in Illinois near Ohio and a few other areas near the Great Lakes. It has not (so far) been found in South or Central American tribes including the Maya.

The Cayce readings cite a series of large and small migrations of Atlanteans to very specific parts of the world. These migrations occurred at several times, but especially during the years approaching 10,000 B.C. One of these places was to the Gobi in extreme southern Siberian Asia. If we assume that haplotype X originated from Cayce's Atlantis, some of the X haplotype should be found in the Gobi region — but very little of this group should be found elsewhere in Siberia.

This is what has been found.

It is interesting that we are living in a time where we can trace the roots of the ancient people based solely upon the genetics of us modern day humans. People can lie, misrepresent or jump to conclusions of where they came from or who their ancestors were in the past, however the truth of who we are and where we came from is to be found in our blood and DNA. Genetics does not lie, and people of our generation are bound to be shocked by what stories our blood has to tell us. I can remember seeing a documentary in which they were testing the genetics of certain people to trace where their ancestors had originated. There was a black man in Britain that was hoping to trace his roots to a specific tribe in Africa, but when the test came back, he was shocked to find that he came mostly from a European lineage. This proves that the color of our skin does not tell where our ancestors came from, but it is the same red blood from every human that tells the true story of our family tree. My own blood type is telling the same information that my genealogy of family names has shown us, but what has shocked me and could not be told by genealogy charts, was the fact that I come from the red race and the white race. It was found on my dad’s side that we had one Cherokee person in our family line, but with the haplogroup X and the RH negative from the Basque, we may have more of the red race in our family than I had once thought. My family might represent two races, even though we appear to be only of the Caucasian race. It is unfortunate that through the racism of the colors of our skin we are separated from one another; however it may be that through the science of genetics that we are brought back together to celebrate our unity.

The haplogroup X in Europe is mostly found in the Mediterranean regions, which suggest that the people that settled in these regions came from the sea. This sea faring people settled in Spain, France, Italy, Morocco, Egypt, and the Middle East by coming through the Mediterranean Sea.

***************************************************************

Overall haplogroup X accounts for about 2% of the population of Europe, the Near East and North Africa. Sub-group X1 is much less numerous, and restricted to North and East Africa, and also the Near East. Sub-group X2 appears to have undergone extensive population expansion and dispersal around or soon after the last glacial maximum, about 21,000 years ago. It is more strongly present in the Near East, the Caucasus, and Mediterranean Europe; and somewhat less strongly present in the rest of Europe. Particular concentrations appear in Georgia (8%), the Orkney Islands (in Scotland) (7%) and amongst the Israeli Druze community (26%); the latter are presumably due to a founder effect.

Mediterranean Europe

Edgar Cayce said that the people in the Pyrenees Mountains came from Atlantis and they are of the red race, and he said that the white race came out of the Carpathian area. The haplogroup X genetics proves that some of the Basque were genetically different then the Caucasian people, even though through time some of the Basque people did mix with the white race. The evidence so far does seem to suggest that the haplogroup X people were a distinct group of people, but I wonder if the RH negative blood type is related to this particular genetic type.

The majority of haplogroup X is located within Europe and America, which is where the majority of the RH negative blood type is located, so that seems to fit beautifully with this theory. Now, according to the statistics only 1% of Native Americans and Asians have RH negative, however this is the area that some Atlanteans are said to have lived. The haplogroup X is also located in these areas, so there does seem to be some kind of a correlation between haplogroup X and the RH negative people.

Do RH negatives come from Atlantis?

If haplogroup X represents the Atlantean race, then we should see a correlation between haplogroup X and Rh negative people.

6.5 + 5.7 + 1.7 + 0.7 = 14.6% RH- people in America
3% haplogroup X in America
14.6 – 3 = 11.6

There are 14.6% of Americans that have RH negative blood types, but only 3% have haplogroup X. The Native Americans only have 1% that are RH negative, but 3% of the Native Americans have haplogroup X. In Europe 15% percent of the people are RH negative, but only 2%-4% have haplogroup X genetics. These numbers don’t match, therefore there is no correlation.

Basically the numbers just don’t add up right now, so unless they discover that there are more people with haplogroup X, then I would say there is no evidence for this theory yet. The numbers should match completely with the haplogroup X types to prove that people from this particular genetic type are RH negative.

Here is what we need to prove this theory.

1. Find proof of Atlantis.
2. Prove that haplogroup X is linked to Atlantis, through DNA testing of ancient Atlanteans.
3. Do more genetic testing on RH negatives to see if they all belong to the same haplotype. (haplogroup X)

This theory is very much possible, but we do need more evidence, which can only be gathered by geneticist and archeologist. The evidence already is enough to start proving Edgar Cayce’s readings, but we definitely need more proof before we can come to any conclusions.

Although the science of genetics is still in its infancy, we can conclude that in the very near future that we might have the ability to read our DNA like a book of our ancestors past. It seems as if the geneticist has now opened the book of life, but what stories will it be telling about our history?

Are We Mutants?

If you have ever seen the movie “Total Recall”, then you will be able to remember the mutants on Mars. They had been exposed to the radiation on Mars and therefore they had developed many mutations to their bodies. In that movie we saw all kinds of mutations that had distorted people’s bodies in very weird ways.

This is how geneticists describe our weird blood type, because they say that this is simply a mutation of unknown origins that happened a long time ago. If our blood type is a mutation, then what caused it to happen?

The geneticists describe this mutation as being a gene deletion, which is called the “crossing over effect”. The copying of the RHD gene did not get copied and therefore when this strand was being reproduced in descendants it got copied and carried over without the RHD gene.

When I got my first computer in the 1980’s, I would buy magazines that had type in programs written in Basic, and I would have to type in the program myself and save it in order to use their software. This was some tedious typing, and I soon discovered that if I had made even the tiniest mistake in my transcriptions that the program would not work properly, so therefore I had to be very, very careful. It was painstaking to meticulously type in a program, that didn’t even make sense compared to our language, and then to have to keep rechecking everything that I typed to make sure that everything was correct. If I had left out even one word, then that could change the program in some way and perhaps cause a significant problem. Well, this is a very simplified way to explain what happens with gene deletion. A gene is deleted, because it was not copied properly and got left out of the program altogether.

The evidence to support this theory has found that the hybrid box is in the place where the Rhesus box should be, so therefore they have concluded that this is because of a transcriptions error. However, none of the geneticists have even considered the fact that perhaps this deletion could have been made on purpose. Perhaps the Rhesus monkey gene is the error that has occurred in humans, and God was trying to correct the problem, when he grafted Jesus into the line of the Jews to start a new bloodline. The prophecy for the Tribe of Judah is very clear that God is going to change the blood with a new genetic change to the vine or line of the Jews. Jesus said that he was that choice vine and that he was going to make that new wine.

Genesis 49:11 Binding his foal unto the vine, and his ass's colt unto the choice vine; he washed his garments in wine, and his clothes in the blood of grapes: (Grafting onto the vine.)

John 15:5 I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me ye can do nothing.

Matthew 26

\(^2^7\) And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying, Drink ye all of it;

\(^2^8\) For this is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many for the remission of sins.

What is the blood of the New Testament? Well, the only recent mutation that I have ever heard of is the RH negative blood type.

The reason why this is called the Rhesus blood group is because this gene is in common with the Rhesus monkey, but what could be its purpose. Here is the weird part. Geneticists don’t really know what the RHD gene does completely, and basically there aren’t really any problems with those that don’t have the RHD gene except for one. The only problem that I have read, that is associated with this gene deletion, has to do with reproduction. However, when two people that are RH negative have a child, then there is no problem whatsoever, so basically the only problem seems to be between the two different blood types, rather than an actual problem of the person without the RHD gene. Although, this problem has been resolved with the roGAM shots and with the testing of the RH blood types at blood banks. Basically, the problem has been smoothed over without any explanations as to what is going on with these two blood types. Furthermore, there are no explanations about why RH negatives can give blood to RH positives, but the RH positives can’t give RH negatives any blood. There is so much that is not yet understood about the Rhesus blood groups. It would seem to me that this mutation is nothing of the sort, and would best be described as an upgrade rather than a freak mutation. The problems associated with anti-RHD are related to reproduction; therefore it is almost like a problem between two different species, rather than a mutation.

What is not commonly known about the RHD gene is that there is really more problems with RHD besides just those that have it and those that don’t. Upon researching about the Rhesus blood groups, I found out that there are people with RH positive blood types that also have problems with the RHD gene. There are two kinds of RH positive people that have a weak D gene or a partial D gene, and people with a partial D and a few weak D types can also have problems with transfusions with RH positive blood and are prone to anti-D immunizations. Why are there all of these problems associated with the RHD gene?

What puzzles people the most about the RH negative blood type is the fact that prior to 1968 most women that married RH positive people had trouble with miscarriages after their first child was born. How could a mother’s blood type reject her child? Most people blame this rejection on the RH negative blood type, rather than the positive blood type, but there seems to be a problem with this conclusion. If the RH negative blood type is so bad, then why can it be given to an RH positive person without any bad effects? The interaction between the two different blood types seems to be based upon the proportions. If the RH positive person is given RH negative blood, then there is a majority of RH positive and no reaction seems to occur, however if an RH negative person is given RH positive blood then a reaction occurs because the RH positive type is in the minority. The negative or positive reaction seems to be based upon the proportions of RH positive blood. Therefore, could the old type of blood (RH positive) be rejecting the new type of blood (RH negative)?

Many people have surmised that the recent mutation of the RH negative blood type is some kind of an evolutionary change to human beings. In the “Jesus Descendants” chapter I theorized that Jesus was different then all people that came before him, and that he could have represented a new bloodline of the Jews. We do know that RH positive is the oldest blood type, and that the RH negative blood type is being viewed by geneticist as being a freak mutation, rather than viewing it to be an evolutionary change to human beings. What is it about the new blood type that scares people and why are the geneticists viewing this change as a mutation, rather than an upgrade?

David Ick and his followers seem to be singling out RH negative people and the Jews in a negative way. Hitler started killing the Jews around 1939, which was about two years after the discovery of the RH negative blood type by Karl Landsteiner and Alexander S. Wiener in 1937. Is this a coincidence or did Hitler know that the RH negative blood type could be a marker for the new Jew?

*******************************************************************************************************************************************

After 1939, the camps increasingly became places where Jews and POWs were either killed or forced to live as slave laborers, undernourished and tortured.

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Holocaust

According to some experts, the idea that blood types have special meaning outside determining what type of transfusion to give a patient may date back to the German Nazis. Among their experiments were studies of blood. For one, Adolf Hitler was convinced the research was lead to the discovery of specific blood types associated with those from a Jewish background.

*******************************************************************************************************************************************

It would seem that Hitler had hatred down to a science and did indeed use blood types to single out the Jews. This same hatred can be found all over the internet against people with RH negative blood, only now the new twist is that people seem to be comparing us to the reptiles. They claim that the people with the newest blood type are hybrids from a reptilian race. Could it be that God’s shepherd race will be targeted again in the near future? Perhaps this is what triggers Jesus to come back and help us and to lead us back home to the Garden. Only this time the Jews are within the Gentile race, as well, and the RH negative blood type might be used to target us.

This is just an intuitive feeling that I have had ever since I started researching about the RH negative blood type and found out that people were blaming our blood type for all of the problems in the world. The Jews were targeted during World War II, but now the hatred seems to have shifted to our mutated blood type. Anyway, I am sure glad that a plan was put into place to get us out of here before they can target us. Our shepherd will lead us back home to the Garden, but hopefully we will bring a huge flock back to God. It is my hope that we can live back in Eden in the love and peace of the original Creation, before Satan corrupted the Creation with the darkness of matter.

May the light shine on us in our endeavors in this long dark night?

Revelation 21

> And the city had no need of the sun, neither of the moon, to shine in it: for the glory of God did lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof.
> And the nations of them which are saved shall walk in the light of it: and the kings of the earth do bring their glory and honour into it.
> And the gates of it shall not be shut at all by day: for there shall be no night there.

Conclusions

When I first started writing this book, my intentions were to cover all of the theories that relate to the RH negative blood type in a non bias kind of way. However I must admit that the more I kept doing research for this project, I found that I was leaning towards a couple of theories due to all of the evidence I was finding to support these claims. Some of the theories that I explored could easily be disproven due to the amount of recent scientific discoveries that were made in the last 15 years. Therefore, I could not have written such a book even a couple of decades ago, without this cutting edge genetic research that is being done right now.

When I first started researching about my blood type, I was really horrified by what people were saying online, and I must say I got quite offended at some of the theories. I mean, who really wants to hear that they come from a race of reptilian aliens or that they are the descendants of the cavemen. Do Christians really want to hear that they are a hybrid of the fallen angels? I didn’t.

Although, it certainly made for some good jokes over the last few months, I eventually grew tired of all the stereotypes that people made about us. Some of the lists that I read were just so weird and bizarre, that I started to wonder if perhaps I was on the wrong planet or something. Some people had us morphing into anything, drinking blood, controlling the world, living as secret reptilian aliens or evil demon hybrids and then some people tried to send us back to the dinosaur ages to live in caves with the cavemen. How could we be a space alien on one webpage and a caveman on another?
It was hilarious and I found myself wondering what other weird things they would make up about us next.

As I started to look into the scientific facts of each theory, as well as some ancient books information, I realized that many theories just didn’t fit altogether. As you can plainly see the chapter on “Jesus Descendants“ is the biggest one, but I didn’t intend for it to be that way. I just kept finding more and more information along the way, and so I kept going back to add more and more over time. There were some theories that I thought might be a possibility at the beginning of my research, however through the evidence that I found I was forced into accepting the fact that certain theories were not even possible. So basically this book was quite a learning experience for me, and writing about the things that I learned along the way helped me to understand far more then I would have without this book.

As you have probably noticed, I like to include lots of information quotes along with the website links where I have found the information. I could have just paraphrased and rewritten the information, but instead I like to just copy and paste the information and put in the link, so the reader can go directly to the source of the article or genetic study. Most books use footnotes and then at the back of the book they post their sources for the data of each chapter, but I prefer to include the information right where I am referring. I also love to include lots of pictures, because to me a picture can convey more information than words can.

It is my personal belief that the Jesus descendant theory and the mutation theory are responsible for why we have this blood type, so these two theories combined explain everything completely.

Although I was already leaning toward the Jesus descendant theory, I could not believe all of the proof that I was finding to support this claim, and I must admit that much of my work is intuitively based. The Bible scriptures fit so perfectly with this theory, and so I was amazed at how easy it is to interpret them literally as a bloodline, which is something that I had never really explored before. All of the hints through the French stories and the watermarks of France seemed to fit perfectly with the Bible scriptures, when we read them at a literal and a symbolic level together. Still though, I can’t completely understand what the purpose of a new bloodline has to offer the world, because there is still much that is unknown about the Rhesus blood group.

I can only offer theories as to how this gene deletion could benefit mankind. Perhaps this particular protein that the RHD gene encodes for is a problem somehow and prevents people from receiving hyperdimensional information from the spiritual realm, and that could be why people are saying that RH negatives (& RH negative recessive people +/-) are more psychic. The RHD gene could have been a mutation or could have been put there by the fallen angels (aliens) to control us and keep us from accessing information from God and the spiritual realm. As we know, Jesus proclaimed that he was the new temple, and his body was acting like the Ark of the Covenant and therefore his Pineal gland was acting as a receiver and transmitter of hyperdimensional communication. It has been proven that the Pineal gland has tiny microcrystals that could act much like a radio receiver, or just like a crystal radio. Jesus Christ bloodline could represent a race of people that can act as messengers for God or as beacons of the light, therefore a new race of shepherds to guide souls back to Eden. Perhaps this bloodline could be Magdalene towers of the flock, and thus they emit a higher frequency which actually helps to raise all energy forms into a higher dimension. This would work with the scientific principle of resonance, as towers set the higher frequency tone for the rest of the people, then everyone would start to resonate with higher frequencies. Eventually as more people with the RH negative blood type are born, then they could help to raise the frequencies. This would create the effect of a net that people would start getting caught up within for the harvest or the ascension of the human race. That would explain the mysterious fish story in John 21, because we would be the net that the apostles, under Jesus direction, throw into the cosmic sea to catch fish. That would also explain the Basque marker of R-M153, which is the number of fish that they caught in the story. The number 153 actually is representative of the net, rather than how many fish/people will be caught for the harvest of the souls.
This could very well be how the blood of Christ saves the people from the sins of the flesh. Remember it is the wine from the vine of Jesus Christ that perhaps emits the sine of our line of Judah and Dan. The snake symbol of Dan can also represent a sine wave, that turns the SERPENT into REPENTS or the brass serpent that is lifted up.
The descendants of Jesus Christ and Mary Magdalene will have the sine wave of the line or lion of Judah and the serpent of Dan. The brass serpent being lifted up on the pole.

Numbers 21:9 And Moses made a serpent of brass, and put it upon a pole, and it came to pass, that if a serpent had bitten any man, when he beheld the serpent of brass, he lived.

John 3:14 And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of man be lifted up:

This also represents the light (I) with the Holy Spirit (S) combined together as one. From the Sampson’s riddle comes the tribe of Dan or bees that come out of the lion, and this represents the buzz that comes from the Holy Spirit sound which works together with the light of Jesus Christ that came from the lion of Judah.

These two theories combined shows us that Jesus Christ and Mary Magdalene carried out God’s plan together. The Virgin Mary was the first Grail and it was through her that the new bloodline began in Jesus. The plan to get souls out of Satan’s sick and perverted creation is similar to the legend of the wooden horse of Troy. Jesus Christ was the gift that was given to this world, and so he slipped into this world like a Trojan horse, and through him came a bloodline that slipped out of the horse. This bloodline is the soldiers of Christ that have been warring against Satan to free the prisoners from hell, and we have grown in numbers to the very last day.

The unicorn is a symbol that was used by the people of this bloodline, and it represents Jesus Christ as the Trojan horse. Out of the Trojan horse came the soldiers of Christ and these souls have come to raise the vibrations of the planet. They will make it possible for people to ascend during the rapture, and these people will sing like a Magdalene tower for the flock.

Jesus & Mary

Matthew 26

“And as they were eating, Jesus took bread, and blessed it, and brake it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat; this is my body.” (bread from Heaven, manna or monatomic elements.)

“And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying, Drink ye all of it; (The bloodline is passing from cup to cup.)

“For this is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many for the remission of sins. (The bloodline of Christ & Magdalene)

“But I say unto you, I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine, until that day when I drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom. (The fruit of the vine is the flock that is brought back home.)

“And when they had sung an hymn, they went out into the mount of Olives. (The bloodline sings at higher frequencies, which is the new song of the 144,000.)
Then saith Jesus unto them, All ye shall be offended because of me this night: for it is written, I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock shall be scattered abroad. (The Jewish line is scattered among the Gentiles.)

In this painting, we see Jesus Christ (unicorn) and Mary Magdalene. They could not portray Jesus as a man on this painting, so they used the unicorn symbol. The lion with the serpent tail represents the Tribe of Dan and Judah, and the fleur-de-lis on the end of the tail represents Israel.

Why use a horse with a horn to represent Jesus Christ?

Revelation 6:2

And I saw, and behold a white horse: and he that sat on him had a bow; and a crown was given unto him: and he went forth conquering, and to conquer.

In the Book of Revelations the symbol for Jesus is a white horse.
The one horn of the unicorn represents the anointed one, which is Jesus Christ. The word unicorn is used 9 times in the King James Version.

Psalm 92:10
But my horn shalt thou exalt like the horn of an unicorn: I shall be anointed with fresh oil.

Luke 1:69
And hath raised up an horn of salvation for us in the house of his servant David;

Revelation 19:11
And I saw heaven opened, and behold a white horse; and he that sat upon him was called Faithful and True, and in righteousness he doth judge and make war. (Jesus Christ)

Revelation 19:14
And the armies which were in heaven followed him upon white horses, clothed in fine linen, white and clean. (Jesus & Mary’s descendants)
The armies that followed the white horse came out of the white Trojan horse of Jesus Christ. The blood of Christ saves the people from the sins of the flesh during the rapture.

The Merovingian kings in France were the descendants of Jesus and Mary, which were from the Tribes of Dan and Judah. They followed a grail code that Jesus example gave them as the King of the Jews. They did not rule the people, and left the government to the Parliament. It was their job to serve the people and to defend them and represent them. They did not put themselves on a pedestal, which kept them humble. Jesus Christ walked among the common people and never exalted himself, but he exalted God. He was not a rich man, and he did not act like a king in the usual matter that other kings had before him. He never ruled with an iron fist, but served with a loving heart. Jesus served God, whom in return wanted us to help his children, and every child of God is our brothers and sisters. Jesus Christ true mission is to help souls go back to the original Garden of Eden, so that we can all live in love and peace together as one Creation under God. It is through the blood of Christ that we will be freed from the sins of the flesh.

This book has one message to those with the blood of Christ. We are servants to God, and God wants for us to be servants to our brothers and sisters. The RH negative people could be here to sing to the Lord, which in return could do what those words actually say. To sing to the Lord is to bring to the Lord all of the souls that have fallen.

\textit{Psalm 95:1}
\textit{O come, let us sing unto the LORD: let us make a joyful noise to the rock of our salvation.}

\textit{Psalm 96:1}
\textit{O sing unto the LORD a new song: sing unto the LORD, all the earth.}

\textit{Revelation 14:3}
And they sung as it were a new song before the throne, and before the four beasts, and the elders: and no man could learn that song but the hundred and forty and four thousand, which were redeemed from the earth.

\textit{Revelation 15:3}
And they sing the song of Moses the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb, saying, Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord God Almighty; just and true are thy ways, thou King of saints.

\textbf{Sing unto the LORD!}
